MANY SALES TAXES—OR ONE GENERAL SALES TAX?

Instead of piling added burdens upon productive industry—such as special imposts on developers of natural resources, a franchise levy (which, in effect, would be a corporate income tax) or a State income tax—the Legislature might solve its revenue problem by imposing a 2 per cent general sales tax.

More than half the States adopted such a measure "for the emergency" (Alabama was the latest,) and some have shown a disposition to make the tax permanent. The sales tax is in favor with State Treasurers' offices because it unfailingly balances the budget.

On the other hand, the tax has not aroused general, organized popular protest. It is unsurpassed as a revenue-producer and—because it is paid a few pennies at a time—the taxpayer does not feel the burden at all. Then why should Texas lawmakers shy of it, and why should the Governor repeatedly announce his unalterable opposition?

The usual explanation is that this is a "poor man's" tax. That objection will not stand up under even cursory examination. In one form or another, every tax is passed on to the "poor consumer." Whenever he buys almost any commodity he must pay several different kinds of taxes. It would be simpler, and cheaper in the long run, to pay one general sales tax.

As San Antonio Express Plank 7 sets forth, "equal and uniform" taxation—alike in Texas and the Nation—would be promoted should Congress and the legislature join in abolishing the many "nuisance" taxes (both Federal and State) and substitute a Federal general sales tax, the revenue to be divided among the States in proportion to their respective collections.

In effect, that is the plan advanced by the Interstate Commission on Conflicting Taxation in its preliminary reports some months ago. That expert body recommended such Federal-State partnership, both as an administrative measure—to reduce assessment and collection-costs—and as a matter of policy.

The Commission's report points out that "competition among the States for industrial and commercial enterprises" is intimately tied up with taxation. As a rule, capital will flow, and business and industry will go, where the tax-burden appears lightest.

However, were the tax-issue removed altogether by equalizing the levy among the States, industry then would seek its level on a more logical and substantial basis. In other words, the States would be left free to compete for new factories and other business enterprises strictly on their merits.

Developments at both Washington and Austin bring that proposal to mind:

The congressional Ways and Means Committee proposes to extend the half-billion-dollar "nuisance" tax schedule through another fiscal year.

The Texas Legislature is considering a great variety of bills "to tax everything in sight."

Both the Federal and State taxes to be continued, or increased, or newly imposed, are actually sales taxes—but they single out certain commodities and services. Obviously, that system is discriminatory.

The revival of the sales-tax proposal at Austin—by several leading Representatives—is therefore significant. Probably nothing will come of it at this session—the opposition is too strong—but it is well to keep the issue alive.—San Antonio Express.

6 OFFICIALS NAMED SCHOOL BOARD AND COUNCIL ARE ELECTED

Two elections to name officials for the School Board and Board of Aldermen were held here during the week.

In the school trustee election held Saturday J. C. Martin was re-elected and Mrs. W. O. Triggs and Drayton McLane were named to succeed Mrs. G. A. McDermott and Rush A. Thomas who declined to offer for re-election.

The vote was as follows:

J. C. Martin	338
Drayton McLane	337
Mrs. W. O. Triggs	261
Dr. A. E. Kruse	179
Mrs. John Ryan	41

In the election held Tuesday to name three members of the Board of Aldermen the results show that Joe Bass was defeated. He sought re-election along with Sam McDermott and August Horstmann, both the latter two being named. Bob Terry, former member, was elected and returns to the service of the city.

Horstmann	268
McDermott	230
Terry	227
Heath	207
Slocumb	164
Bass	106

The Aldermen will take oath on April 20th when the next regular meeting of the Council will be held.

BAND CONCERT HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT

Monday night at 8 o'clock there will be a public concert by the Yoe High School band at the Physical Education building.

This concert will be in the nature of an informal recital, presenting the band in its contest numbers, and offering the various soloists of the band in their concert roles.

The concert recital is to be dedicated to the Band Parents Club, the organization which has been instrumental in developing the band work, and the general public and friends of the band are cordially invited to attend.

Fairbanks-Morse Refrigerator for 1937 Is In City

At The THEATRE

By
GEO. WINCHELLE.

After "The Green Light" patrons of the Cameron Theatre may find it a bit difficult to appreciate the average in screen offerings. They will not soon forget that great production. Dr. Newell Paige will stir up in the memory of theatre goers for a long time the better emotions sought to be served by such fine pictures.

Stanley Swift, owner of the theatre, comes through with a startling announcement regarding a change in box office admission charges. He styles it "Bargain Day Announcement" and then proceeds to say that on each Wednesday beginning April 14th, prices will be as follows: Adults matinee 10c, night 15c; children under 12, matinee 5c, night 10c.

To make the inauguration of lower prices for this date each week more impressive Mr. Swift presents Ruby Keeler and Ross Alexander in "Ready, Willing and Able." This is a one day show. It is Ross Alexander's last picture. Millions of theatre patrons recall with sorrow his recent tragic death. In a fit of despondency over the death of his wife, he took his own life. One has but to remember "China Clipper" to vision what may be expected in this last great role with Ruby Keeler, the dynamic star

AKERS BROTHERS TO LIVE IN LOUISIANA

C. E. and H. M. Akers of Cameron has purchased a bottling franchise in Baton Rouge, La., where in time both expect to move with their families.

C. E. Akers is now in the Louisiana capital in charge of the business. H. M. Akers is in Cameron looking after business interests and may not go to their new location for a year. He was recently elected a member of the Cameron School Board.

They formerly owned the Coca Cola Bottling Company in Cameron which they sold at a handsome figure and are now re-investing their funds in the manufacture of Dr. Pepper for which they have a large and profitable territory in Louisiana.

Air Net to Catch Bombers

In the next war London may be defended from enemy bombers by great cable nets supported by balloons like that shown here. It is a revival of a plan of 1917 and provides a menace to low-flying planes, forcing them to fly higher, where searchlights, range finders and aircraft guns may be used against them more effectively.

LATE NEWS

FLASHES

CASE PENDING

Argument was due to begin late Wednesday in the litigation pending before Judge Graham Gillis in District court. The suit was brought by Roy Stevens of Rockdale against the First National Bank and is said to be a transaction dating back to the handling of government checks when L. Van Perkins aided veterans of the county. Mr. Perkins is a witness in the case.

MRS. DEES DIES

Mrs. Raymond Dees died suddenly at her home near Marlow Monday. She was 37 years of age and leaves three children and husband. She was the eldest daughter of Mrs. A. W. Bickett. She had been ill a short time.

MILK SUPPLY DOUBLES

Kraft-Phoenix Cheese Corporation through the manager Mr. Alexander reported at noon Wednesday that the milk supply at the plant in Cameron had doubled within the past two weeks. The increase each day is listed at around 500 pounds. Wednesday the plant received 45000 pounds. The butter fat price is 35c.

EXPLOSION ORDINANCE

City Council was asked by City Marshal Gene Smith Tuesday night to enact an ordinance prohibiting any person or persons vacating a house in the city without notifying the Gas Company to disconnect the gas. He said recently an explosion was imminent when a local plumber entered a house which had been vacated and discovered an open jet.

Milam Statue Not Yet Settled Fact As To Location

Placing the statue of Ben Milam on the count house lawn had developed symptoms of a controversy it became known here last week when the Commissioners Court voted unanimously to ask the statue be placed on the northwest corner of the lawn.

The Centennial Committee for Milam county through a sub-committee of which the late T. S. Henderson was chairman, selected the southwest corner so the statue could face San Antonio where Milam died.

This site was re-designated for the architect and sculptor by the committee again last week. In spite of this the court voted to ask for a change.

AMOUNT IS ONLY HALF

Government farm checks in the amount of $220,000 had been received up to noon Wednesday at the office of the County Agent, George Banzhaf.

This sum represents less than half the amount due Milam county farmers, Mr. Banzhaf said. The checks are for the 1936 co-operation with the government to restrict cotton acreage.

The checks are coming in rapidly. Each farmer to receive pay will be notified by card. Farmers are requested not to call for their checks until they receive a notice which will be mailed out promptly.

Total payments this year will amount to about a half million dollars. Half of the money is payable to tenants and half to the land lord.

Knights Columbus Hear Speakers At Recent Meeting

Cameron Council Knights of Columbus, at its regular meeting, had the pleasure of having the following guest speakers: Rev. John Riach, C. S. P., Messrs. F. J. Kinane, John A. Peninger and B. P. Matocha of Austin, and Rev. Thomas O'Sullivan of Burlington. The talks were enjoyed.

Much credit must be given to Messrs. B. P. Matocha, John C. Andres and Rudolph Richter for the presence of the speakers named above.

The following delegates were selected to the convention at Mineral Wells in May: August G. Kunz and John C. Andres. Alternates are Ray O'Neill and William J. Parma.

Cameron Council has ten candidates awaiting initiation. Plans are being made to have an initiation the first Sunday in May.

Joseph O'Sullivan, student at St. Mary's Seminary, La Porte, Texas, was a guest of Rev. T. F. O'Sullivan during Easter.

F. G. Blake of Hearne, owner of the Coca Cola Bottling Company, was a business visitor in Cameron this week.

ROSEBUD CONVICT CAUGHT

Huntsville, April 2.—R. H. Wattlinger, 35, foreman of construction at Retrieve state prison farm, sustained a broken leg today when he jumped from a car after two convicts had forced him to drive past the guard as a hostage. The two, Jack Ward, 26, Rosebud, serving four years on charges of theft and burglary from Falls county, and Harry Steele, 27, serving eight years for robbery and kidnaping in Grayson county, were later recaptured.

Yoe Hi Latin Team and Teacher Score

More honors for Cameron Students and a member of the faculty this week adds prestige to the educational system of the city.

In the Latin Tournament held in Cleburne on April 3 the highest average made by a team was recorded by Virginia Humbles and Dorothy Perkins and a cup was awarded the team and their teacher Miss Ethel Skelton. The team scored this triumph as a second year team in the contest.

James Baskin, second year Latin Student, was presented a ribbon for ranking second in the district as an essay writer.

The Latin team from Cameron, coached by Miss Skelton, competed with Mart, Temple and Waco. From this formidable array of school talent it may be seen that Yoe High school has scored a triumph of note. Miss Skelton and her pupils are being congratulated by the student body and by patrons of the school who appreciate the high standards of the system.

Maxine Akers and Dorothy Huesner, representing the freshman class, attended the tournament. Jim Baskin won first place last year with an essay, for first year classes in Latin. Stone Garner who registered high in the tournament last year, could not attend this year and his place was taken by Dorothy Perkins. Douglas Perrin attended the tournament as the sophomore essay writer. Last year Virginia Humbles and Stone Garner made the highest grades in the district on the first year test and were presented with a cup for Yoe High school. Last Christmas these students had photos made with the cup they won and presented the picture to Miss Skelton. An essay by Adele Slama won second place in the tournament in 1936. At the Latin Banquet on Saturday night following the tournament in Cleburne Miss Skelton made the response to the address of welcome by Miss Allene Gray of Cleburne. Miss Skelton is one of the most valuable members of the faculty here and her work is distinguished by the two years record made by her Latin students in the tournament.

Baylor College Head Will Receive Honors

Belton, April 6—Twenty-five years ago this spring, Dr. John Crumpton Hardy accepted the presidency of Mary Hardin-Baylor College, changing from a campus at a college for men to that of a college for women. At the same time he transferred the interests, ambitions and sympathies of thirteen years as president of Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, from boys to girls.

To honor this educator, who has served young men and young women faithfully for nearly a half century, Southern educators, college presidents, outstanding Baptist leaders, as well as alumnae, students, faculty and the Board of Trustees of Mary Hardin-Baylor, will gather at the college April 20 to celebrate the anniversary of Dr. Hardy's coming to the college in 1912. The celebration, arranged by the Board of Trustees, will not only honor a man who has served faithfully, but one who has served well, being credited with the building and growth, of two of the eminent schools of the south and southwest—Mississippi A. & M. and Mary Hardin-Baylor.

DEBT ADJUSTMENT BOARD WILL MEET

Milam County Farm Debt Adjustment Committeemen will meet with W. V. Hanover, District FDA Supervisor at the Resettlement office in Cameron, April 12th, to discuss problems of debt-distressed farmers.

These Committee men act as arbitrators for both debtor and creditor, and keep well informed on sources of farm financing so that their suggestions have enabled many farmers in this county to avoid losing their property.

Farmers or creditors wishing this group's assistance should plan to be at the meeting at 10 a. m., and have with them complete information about the debt. Those with particularly different problems should contact one of the County Committeemen before the meeting. These Committeemen are:

J. D. Baskin, Cameron.
J. C. Freeman, Maysfield.
A. J. Hairston, Rockdale.

A. F. Houston, State FDA Supervisor of the Resettlement Administration from Dallas, expects to attend this meeting.

This group is a section of the Resettlement Administration, and their help is free to farmers and farm creditors who wish assistance in refinancing chattel and land debts.

Milton Malcik, now of Dallas, was a Rosebud visitor Saturday and Sunday.

Former Sharp Boy Making Good in Navy Baseball

Luther Reichert, formerly of Sharp, who has been enlisted in the U. S. Navy at San Diego, California, for 11 years, has pitched himself to fame playing baseball for the U. S. S. Dobbins.

Reichert who is a star pitcher for the Dobbins, is also captain of the team. They won the A. A. League for the past two years.

In her opening game for the season Reichert pitched against the Padres, another leading team of the league. He led his team to a victory in this game as he sent his smoking fast ball along with his side arm delivery which held the Padres puzzled until the game ended.

Luther is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reichert of Sharp and a brother of Rufus Reichert of Sharp, manager of the Sharp Kittens.

Sharp Seniors Win First in County Meet

EDITORIAL

Have you ever been to a zoo? If so, did you see the funny faces of the monkeys and hear the queer noises of the animals? The sight, reminds one of some of the pupils who enter school library, not to work but to pass the time away.

What a queer way to utilize a library like the one Yoe High maintains! With a shelf of fifteen or more current magazines and a room containing books about so many different subjects, how could anyone afford to let valuable minutes slip by? How can thoughtless students take the chairs for themselves and force some one to go to the study hall who really needs to use the library to get an assignment?

The attitude taken by one of the high school boys about walking across the campus grass was commendable. If each student would maintain the same attitude about using the library, maybe the Study Hall Law, "Stay in the study hall on these days," might be repealed.

PREPARATIONS BEGUN FOR FIRST FETE SINCE 1928

Preparations are being made for a May Fete to be held on May 7th on the athletic field. This will be the first May Fete for Cameron since the one of 1928, which was photographed and made into a moving picture.

About 300 students are expected to take part, representing schools from all parts of the county.

The fete will picture colonial life, and many colorful costumes will be worn. A student to play the part of George Washington will be elected by the student body. The election will be held under the auspices of the civics class and will be conducted at a regular election.

Miss Dallis Young is chairman of the committee for arrangements. Working with her are Mrs. Gladys Walker Hefley, historian; Miss Sue Hardage and Miss Dorothy Langdon, costuming; Miss Emma Pearl Clement and Miss Mary Ross Coble, folk songs and dances; Miss Catherine Sproull and Miss Virginia Sappington, Maypole dance; D. C. Wood and E. A. Perrin, Minute Men; correspondence, E. A. Perrin; property arrangements, Had Garrett, Lester Turner and Ted Matula; public address system, Zeke Brod.

BAND MAKES READY FOR STATE CONTEST

As the date draws near for the Annual State Band Contest, to be held April 15th, 16th and 17th, the Yoe High School Band is busy with preparations. The band is entered in the primary event, the concert contest and the drill contest, sight-reading contest and the solo contests. About 112 of the band members will participate in the solo contest playing.

To prepare for the big concert playing contest, the Yoe Band is making plans for a series of concerts to be played in the near future. A ten o'clock chapel concert will be given at Mary Hardin-Baylor College in Belton on April 6th and later on the same day, a concert will be given for the student body of Belton High School.

A free concert for the public will be given in the new Yoe High Vocational Building on the night of April 12th. This concert will be in the form of a recital, presenting each soloist in his or her contest number and the band in the band contest numbers plus extra added numbers of an entertaining nature. This concert is to be dedicated to the Band-Parents Club, the organization that has aided in furthering the band work in the Cameron schools.

At the chapel hour on the morning of April 14th at Yoe High School, the band will conclude its series of concerts with a concert played for the students.

The band has recently received ten new uniforms, making a total of 71 members in full dress uniform who will take part in the concerts and band contest.

THE 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was first developed for Europe, where fuel costs are high. Two years' usage there proved its unusual economy.

When the "60" came to this country this year, the Ford Motor Company made no mileage claims—waited for facts, written on American roads by American drivers.

Now Ford "60" owners are reporting averages of 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. That makes it the most economical Ford car ever built!

Best of all, the Ford "60" is just as big and roomy—just as handsome, sturdy and safe—as the famous 85-horsepower Ford V-8. And it sells at the lowest Ford price in years.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can drive with pride and profit—see the thrifty "60" soon!

SOCIETY NEWS

By MRS. B. F. BONDS

DELPHIANS

Mrs. A. J. Smith was hostess to members of the Delphian Chapter on Tuesday.

Mrs. J. D. Eplen in charge of the lesson program very ably reviewed the book "The Nine Taylors" by Dorothy Sayers. Mrs. H. H. Stedman gave the biography of the life of the author.

A social hour followed when guests were invited into the dining room where a variety of delicate hued blossoms were used making a pretty setting for the refreshment table which was laid with lace and centered with pansies. On either side yellow tapers gleamed in silver candelabra.

Mrs. Will Looney of Branchville presided at the tea service. During this hour three Little Misses entertained the guests, Mary Jo Stedman, gave a piano number, Sarah Beth Looney of Branchville a reading and Jane Stedman, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Haynes, gave a colonial dance number.

Guests other than the 15 members were Mrs. Jeff Kemp, Mrs. R. G. Lyons, Mrs. Guy Haynes, Mrs. H. F. Smith and Mrs. Will Looney of Branchville.

ANNOUNCEMENT SHOWER

Mrs. Herman Boedeker, Jr., and Miss Annie Boedeker were co-hostesses on Wednesday evening, entertaining with an announcement shower honoring Miss Stacie Matyastik who will become the bride of Henry Boedeker on April 14.

Decorations featuring yellow and white, were used in all appointments, with bridal wreath the chosen flower.

Thirty-five guests enjoyed various games with Milota Gelner, Miss Mary Richter and Mrs. Rudolph Richter being successful in winning trophy awards which were presented to the bride.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Refreshments were served with Mrs. George Schiller offering a toast to the bride.

Miss Matyastik is the daughter of Paul Matyastik and Mr. Boedeker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Boedeker, Sr.

CLASS ENTERTAINMENT

The Sunshine Class of the First Baptist Church was entertained at the home of Mrs. John Holley. A business meeting was held and new officers were elected as follows:

Mrs. Lester Hughes, president; Mrs. Aubrey Hott, vice president; Mrs. Wayland Hughes, secretary.

A social hour followed and a lovely refreshment plate of sandwiches, ice tea and salad was served to Mesdames H. Stafford, H. Raymond, L. Hughes, W. Hughes, E. Streetman, B. Jones, H. Hither, H. Dobbins, Jackson, Jameson and Misses Mabel and Lil Jeter.

BREAKFAST FOR MISS STIDHAM

A lovely pre-nuptial entertainment for Miss Mary Tom Stidham was a breakfast given by Miss Frances Hobson on Sunday, April 4, at 8:30 o'clock.

The dining table, covered with lace, was centered with a lovely arrangement of blue bonnets. Place cards carried out the hostess' chosen color scheme: Pink, silver and blue, as did other decorations throughout the reception rooms. Between courses Miss Dorothy Kidd gave clever toasts to the bride, the groom and to the bachelor girls the bride will leave behind. After the delicious breakfast was served, Miss Hobson presented to the honoree a handsome breakfast set.

The honoree was beautifully gowned in a solid embroidery with ornaments of black velvet ribbon, while the hostess was attired in a blue print crepe trimmed with lace.

Invited guests were Mrs. John Richard Young of Thrall; Mrs. J. W. Foster of Calvert; Misses Ethel Mondrik, Mary Newton, Mildred Thornton and Dorothy Kidd. Assisting the hostess in greeting her guests were her mother, Mrs. Tracy Hobson and her sister, Miss Florence Hobson.

SORORITY MEETS

Members of the Alpha Eta Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi of Cameron, met with Mrs. Wm. T. Hefley, educational director, on Monday evening.

Miss Dorcas Batte, president, presided. Plans were made for a Founders day banquet to be held April 29.

Mrs. W. R. Newton, Jr., was in charge of the educational program for the evening.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

Mrs. Lester Williams was delightful hostess on Friday afternoon when four tables of guests were invited for a series of Contract Bridge.

The reception rooms were decorated with Blue Bonnets. High score award went to Mrs. Ed. Kolba of Buckholts and Mrs. Lucille Bradley of Temple won second high award.

Mrs. Krindred Raley of Austin was another out of town guest.

Concluding the games the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Walter Burns served a salad course with ice tea.

CLINTON-HENRY

Friends will be glad to learn of the marriage of Miss Lola Clinton to Paul M. Henry which was solemnized in Houston Tuesday, March 30.

Miss Clinton was reared in Cameron and had been making her home in Houston for some time, after completing a business course here.

The couple will make their home in Richmond where Mr. Henry is associated with the Gulf Oil Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry were guests of her mother Mrs. Loula Clinton here on Sunday.

BURLINGTON GIRL MARRIED

SUNDAY TO RAYMOND KOSEL
Burlington, April 2.—Miss Irene Kruse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kruse of Burlington, and Raymond Kosel, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kosel of Wilson community, were married Sunday in Terry's Chapel Lutheran church. Rev. W. R. Mueller performed the ceremony and Mrs. Mueller and the choir furnished the wedding music.

The bride in white satin and veil was attended by Miss Lydia Kosel, sister of the groom, and Miss Emma Sell. The bride's flowers were Easter lilies. The groom was attended by Ollie Kruse, brother of the bride, and Willie Bruggman. Ushers were Fred Bruggman, Jr., and Willie Kosel.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served in the home of the bride's parents to 40 guests.

Mrs. Kruse is a Rosebud high school graduate. She attended Temple junior college and Southwestern State Teachers college in San Marcos, and is now teaching in the Clarkson school. Mr. Kruse is farming in the Burlington community where they will make their home.

Misses Lois and Louise Robbins who are teaching in Texas City spent Sunday with their mother, Mrs. K. K. Robbins.

Simmie Smith who is employed by the Postal Telegraph Company in Taylor spent Sunday with his family in Cameron.

Miss Jane Tyson of Austin was a recent visitor in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Tyson.

News From Two Mile School

A Civic Report

We the pupils of Two Mile School from the fifth through the ninth grades, with the assistance and supervision of our principal, Mr. O. W. Kirk, have discussed and prepared answers to several different questions that have originated in our civic class.

We found it a very interesting subject for study. Trying to find answers that would be accepted was far from easy. The questions with the answers arranged as to their importance as voted by the room are as follows:

A. What are the most important things in life?

1. Health; 2. Happiness; 3. Friendship; 4. Truthfulness; 5. Citizenship; 6. Education; 7. Service and Courage; 8. Common Sense, or Good Judgment; 9. Wealth.

B. What helps you to learn?

1. Healthy body and mind; 2. Willingness; 3. Determination; 4. Attentiveness; 5. Apply yourself.

C. How can you be a good neighbor?

1 Do unto others as you would have them do unto you; 2 Kindness, helpfulness and friendliness; 3 Do not gossip; 4 Respect and Association; 5 Don't be two faced.

D. How can we progress in life?

1 Be Honest; 2 Have courage; 3 Be polite; 4 Meet the public with a smile; 5 Don't be stubborn.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the voters of Cameron for their support in last Saturday's School Trustee election, and pledge that our every action while on the School Board shall be motivated by a desire to give Cameron even better schools.

"A Good Example"

No business or profession is without a code of ethics.

True, one cannot always detect this fact, by observing the conduct of those engaged in the business.

Every such code of ethics lends atmosphere that begets confidence. A code of ethics has no parallel in building prestige, and, if followed, will result in better business and better business men.

The Herald has 'set a good example' for others to follow. In doing so, it has not always found financial profits. The Herald has always stood firm against abuse of ethics.

These abuses occur through ignorance, and, often selfishness.

Newspapers worthy of the name, never sell their news columns. Likewise they submit to no dictation. They never seize "excuses" to sell advertising nor withhold values they are obliged to give in exchange for money invested.

Cheap Merchandising . . . selling below cost of production as a competitive weapon will destroy any city or any business. Has Cameron suffered through low standards?

Ethics as good society in business also may mean a profit as well.

BRIARY TEAM WINS
COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Coach Paul C. Campbell of the Briary team saw his boys win their final victory in a fast ball game at Cameron on Wednesday, March 31st, in the Milam County Annual Tournament. This county Championship game climaxes a fast schedule, composed of thirteen games with representative teams of both Milam and Falls Counties. The Briary boys have won all thirteen games, piling up a total score of 186 runs as opposed to thirty-eight runs by their opponents. Now Coach Campbell enters his team in the District Meet at College Station on April 9th, planning to bring back the pennant for Milam County and Briary School.

The game Wednesday at Cameron was played with the hitherto undefeated team from Davilla Rural School. It proved an exciting game from start to finish. In the first half of the game each team took the lead twice. The score was tied in the fifth inning, and so it stayed until the last half of the ninth. Then Briary, with only one out, got two singles and a double hit in a row—scoring the two singles, and so winning the game 5-3.

Bill Stoneham starred in every phase of the game, in that he made some stellar catches on second base, saving the game twice. Then he came back in the ninth inning with the two-base hit which forced in the winning scores. Every player, including Hobson Gray playing his first game, played superb ball. Probably the out-standing players in both batting and fielding were: the pitcher, Harding White; the catcher, Coy Lee Lambert; the third-baseman, Sandy White; and the second-baseman, Bill Stoneham. The first-baseman, Ed Stovack, played the fine brand of ball that he always plays. Raymond Bishop was not able to play on account of an injured finger and Hobson Gray was put in. The other players of the team were: Truett Henson, short-stop; Elton Archer, center field; Wilburn Price, right short stop; and Clarence Jones, left field. Elmo Fohis and Robert White were regular subs.

Coach Ruggles of Cameron, director of the tournament, awarded to the winning Briary team a beautiful pennant which bears the legend: "1937 Play Ground Ball." County Superintendent Guy T. Newton congratulated the winning team, complimenting their cheerful acceptance of the umpire's decisions.

Mr. Campbell is professor of mathematics and assistant principal in the Briary School. This was his first year to coach boys' athletics. Of course Mr. Campbell is proud of the County Championship, but he says that he prizes still more the fine sportsmanship of his team which he has taught them to put ahead of victory.

Miss Hellen Neal, the principal of Briary, is proud of her declaimers who placed in the County Meet; Lillian Todd, 3rd in Senior Girls' declamation; Pansey Mitchell, 1st in Junior Girls' declamation; and D. C.

Henson, 4th in Senior Boys' declamation. Miss Neal takes Miss Pansey Mitchell to the Bryan District Meet.

In a pretty appointed Easter motif, Mrs. Tom Stidham announce the approaching marriage of her daughter Miss Mary Tom Stidham to Dwight Moody, Saturday afternoon March 27, the wedding to take place April 23. Miss Stidham graduated from Yoe High school several years ago and attended school at San Marcos, and has been teaching the past term. Mr. Moody is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Moody, and holds a prominent position with the Milam Candy Company here. They expect to make their home in Cameron after their marriage. Miss Stidham is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stidham.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place. In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

BUCKHOLTS POULTRY SHOW IS SUCCESS

Leo Fuchs's pen of White Leghorns were named grand champions of the Buckholts poultry show late Friday and the show came to a close Saturday night with the paying of premiums to exhibitors of more than 150 head of standard bred poultry. Champion female was a Black Minorca hen, Felix Marek, owner, and the champion male bird was a barred Plymouth Rock cockerel, owned by Walter Fuchs of Yarellton. E. D. Parnell, American Poultry Association licensed judge, placed the awards in the show.

A special program of music and speechmaking featured the show Friday night, with W. C. Homeyer, Feed Research Specialist of Fort Worth giving the principal address. The show was sponsored by the Buckholts Future Farmer chapter, E. L. Hinson adviser, and Buckholts and Cameron merchants and business organizations co-operated in making the premium list possible.

The Cameron Future Farmer poultry team of Dana Monroe, Lyle McDermott and James Brock, won first prize in the Friday afternoon contest, and the members and Red Chain starting mash by the Sanitary Hatchery of Buckholts. The Sharp FFA team won second and were given a cash award by the Cameron Chamber of Commerce.

Attendance at the show was good throughout Friday and Saturday and Leo Fuchs, Buckholts banker and community leader, said the show would be continued next year bigger and better than ever.

A second team from Cameron composed of John Howard Pressley, Hilry Nabours and Walter Elder judged in the contest, placing third.

Dionne Quins Who Eat Oatmeal are "Always Three"

Not many two-year-olds manage to support themselves and do as much for their community as do the Dionne Quins. It is said that these world-famous babies are largely responsible for the new tourist camps, the five prosperous hotels in North Bay, the new electric light and telephone line, newly painted and repaired fences, the $75,000 road from Callander to the DaPoe Hospital, numerous gas stations, Callander's new railroad stations, and numerous "landscaping" projects. They own and maintain their own 13 room hospital-home and the new eight-room duplex recently built for the medical staff. At the tender age of "almost three" the Dionne Quins have developed into "good little business women."

And they have also developed into five of the most adorable, healthy little youngsters alive. For the Quins' diet is carefully supervised from day to day. For instance, they are given oatmeal every day.

Children specialists and diet experts know that oatmeal is rich in Vitamin B and that Vitamin B is Nature's best defense against nervousness, constipation and poor appetite due to lack of that vitamin in the diet. And oatmeal, with milk, is also known to be a good source of important body-building minerals, muscle-building protein, and energy-making carbohydrates, all essential for good health.

So, the Dionne Diet has become famous the world over, and every day as a part of their famous diet the healthy, robust Dionne Quins eat Quaker Oats.

EPISODE 11 - "IN THE COBRA'S COILS"

THE WASHINGTON STAGE

REVIEWED BY
W. R. POAGE
OUR CONGRESSMAN

I did not return to Washington from my visit home until the latter part of the week. I am sure that it is needless for me to say that I enjoyed the opportunity to be in Texas for a few days and to meet the people of our district. I feel that both Waco and Temple arranged receptions of which everyone could well be proud and which were thoroughly enjoyed by Mr. Farley and all of his party. In his behalf as well as for myself I want to thank everyone who had a hand in the entertainment.

While I find that Congress has done very little work this last week, there has been no let-up in my mail and I find such an accumulation of matters on my desk that I wonder when I will ever work out. I find that they are still devoting most of their time here to talking about the Court and the "sit-down" strikes with the strikes getting the larger share of the talk. In this connection the most encouraging item seems to me to be the fair and courageous attitude assumed by Mr. William Green, the President of the American Federation of Labor, when he stated this morning that he did not approve of any unlawful practice on the part of labor. We can all agree that Labor has a right to strike but we cannot agree that either Labor or Capital has a right to take the property of another by force. Mr. Green's fine attitude will go a long way toward maintaining public friendship for organized Labor.

The House last week passed the regular appropriation bill for the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor Department amounting to $123,099,000. The only substantial increase over the committee estimate was an increased half million for canalization to the Rio Grande. This appropriation is the smallest of all of the departmental bills to come before us and yet it carries more money than was spent for all purposes by the State of Texas last year. It seems to me inevitable that the Federal Government should increase its taxes in the near future. We are spending more money than we are taking in and we cannot go on borrowing forever. We should reduce some of the activities of government and I had sincerely hoped to see us do so but I do not see any immediate prospects of doing this. On the other hand it seems probable that the government will embark on a number of new programs all of which cost money, and all of which must ultimately be paid for through taxation. Certainly we cannot abandon our program of Public Works nor can we reduce our Federal contribution to old age pensions. Although they account for a great share of our Federal expenditures, these programs are both inadequate at present and surely they can not be reduced. So too, with our

MICKY CATCHES AGAIN

After many months out of uniform, Mickey Cochrane, manager and catcher of the Detroit Tigers, is pictured here as he donned his war paint for a workout with the Tigers during their spring training trip in Florida. Cochrane was forced out in the later part of last season by injury and illness. He is now in the pink and rarin' to go.

FARM CLUB NEWS

Only $4.60 bought lumber and hardware to build a clothes closet 4 feet wide, 2 feet, 9 inches deep and 7 1-2 feet high for Mrs. Gene Burnett, wardrobe demonstrator of the Clarkson Home Demonstration Club.

Mrs. Burnett wanted a closet she could move, so a collapsible one held together by six large hooks was designed. Because of this, the shelf is one over the clothes rod running the full length of the closet. The shelf for hats, four hat stands, a rod, and shoe racks complete the fittings of the closet.

Many homes have been built without storage closets, but the low cost at which Mrs. Burnett has acquired one shows that this lack can be remedied. $2 was spent for labor by the Burnett's, but this cost can be eliminated when the building can be done by one of the family. Often there is old lumber about the place that can be utilized, making the cost lower still.

Easier and more adequate care of her clothes will be possible when Mrs. Agnes Gravender, wardrobe demonstrator of the Ad Hall Home Demonstration Club makes some changes in the clothes closet that she built last year.

Mrs. Gravender plans to repair the interior of the closet and paint all the wood work. Fresh light paper and paint discourages the moth, a pest that likes darkness and dirt. More shelves will be put in to give easy access to folded garments, and another shoe rack will be made so that all shoes can be properly cared for.

Well fitted and arranged clothes closets make it possible to give clothes care that will make them last longer and look better while they are in use. Mrs. Gravender finds that it does not cost much to attain such a closet. By using materials around the place she has built hers with a cash outlay of only forty cents to date.

A garden containing 2,349 long feet produces all the vegetables needed for the family of Mrs. Shepard Longmire, home food supply demonstrator of the Bethlehem home demonstration club. This garden provides 783 feet of row space for each member of the mailly. One foot of row will produce from one-half to one pound of vegetables, depending on the rainfall. This amount of row feet can be managed to provide the 500 lbs. of vegetables needed during the year to feed an individual adequately.

The shelves on which Mrs. Kermit Shelton of the Daville-Friendship Home Demonstration Club stores her canned foods will be made over to make care of her foods more satisfactory. More shelves will be added and supporting stringers will be put in to keep the shelves from sagging from the weight of cans and jars. The pantry will be completely enclosed by adding a back and hanging doors in front. The whole will then be painted. In an enclosed pantry containers can be kept clean, and the food will keep better since it stays cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

"It doesn't cost anything, yet it is so pretty and so easy to do," said Shirley Cryer of the Val Verde 4H club about the shell edge finish she has put on the top of her slip.

By finishing her slip this way, Shirley has an edging much more attractive than lace would have been and one that is more durable, as well as one that keeps down the cost of her slip. The dainty inconspicuous shell edge will also form a better background for Shirley's thin summer dresses than a plain edge or an elaborate lace finish would have.

Would you like for your sewing to have "that professional look?" Geraldine Sneed, the wardrobe demonstrator of the North Elm 4H club has learned that an amateur seamstress can do this very thing by pressing chose the flat feel seam for her slip the garment as she works. Geraldine because it is a smooth seam, one that washes easily, and one that is strong enough to last as long as the material does.

The seams of the slip are so well made they look as if they were made by a professional. When asked her secret she replied, "While making the seams, I pressed the seam well, pinned, and basted every step before I did the next machine stitching."

Visitors in the Roy Johnson home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Eikenhorst and family of Tracy and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Russell and children Ray and LaVerne.

Miss Otalia Wilkerson spent Sunday with Miss Marie Ford.

The high school room and a few members of the seventh grade enjoyed an April fool picnic at the Big Elm Creek bridge Thursday afternoon, chaperoned by Mr. Grover D. Reat. Those who went were Helen Barrett, Mildred Gibbs, Ollie Ruth Garvin, Tyler Lee Griffin, Doris Gibbs, Katherine Barrett and LaVerne Russell, boys were Junior Fuller, Wesley Griffin, G. W. Lock, Grover D. Reat, Jr., as guests they had Marvin Griffin and Allen Wilkerson of South Elm. Everybody reported a grand time.

There are several cases of mumps at this time.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Miss Florence Gibbs, Honored

Mrs. Frank Barrett entertained Friday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Florence Gibbs, bride-to-be of Mr. James (Doc) Fuller of Houston.

Guests were welcomed by Miss Irene Gibbs, and Miss Josephine Gibbs presided over the bride's book.

There were several interesting games played, which were sponsored by Mrs. Buddie Fuller. Prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Barrett, Clarence Colburn, Roland Gandy and Sam Clark. These prizes were presented to the bride-to-be.

Gifts were brought into the living room in two small covered wagons, which resembled those of the pioneer days. Florence opened the many lovely gifts, and expressed her thanks in a gracious manner.

The dining room was beautifully decorated in pink and green. A toast to the bride was read by Miss Katherine Terry. Mrs. Frank Barrett and Mrs. Jesse Gibbs served a salad course and punch to the following guests: Mesdames Lida Wilkerson, Roland Gandy, J. W. Foster, Joe Ford, W. C. Although some folks don't work up much enthusiasm for mass starrings in pictures, the All Star Cast film, has come to claim the applause of millions. Remember "Grand Hotel?"

Who doesn't. Well, Friday April 9 "Mid Summer Night's Dream" with its romantic appeal gets the call for April's best bid for grand acting by co-starring stars. Sometimes we judge a picture better after we've seen it, but this one may be taken "sight unseen" because its the kind of picture millions like.

This picture goes in for a little heavy drama and music as well. It's Shakespeare and you may know what to expect. The music is by Mendelssohn.

Jimmie Cagney, hard boiled and hard fisted, the bad boy of the films gets loose again with his matchless art in "Great Guy" Saturday, April 10th at the Cameron. It's a typical Cagney picture. One always expects the extreme in dramatics with Cagney. He needs no supporting cast. He's a show himself and never fails to turn in a steller performance. Yes, even Cagney can give you a heat throb. See this picture.

Song hit pictures give us that defence we owe to self occasionally to hum a tune or sing a little. Five big time song hits are featured in "Swing Low, Swing High" at the Cameron Sunday and Monday. One simply cannot imagine better teams than Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray. One of the song hits is "Panamonia" and another is "I Hear a Gail to Arms." Brush up a little on your notes, tune up the pipes and come along to the Theatre Sunday and Monday and sing. Hear this new burst of lilting melody and see a first rate show.

Everybody likes a smile and to laugh is life. If you are a dispeptic or have physiological gout don't see "Sing Me a Love Song." It's a cu-koo cast, crazy and cockeyed. Yes, you've guessed it. Zazu Pitts is in it . . . and Hugh Herbert, Nat Pendleton, Walter Catlett and Allen Jenkins. That's not all. James Melton and Patricia Ellis team up in one of the big Warner Bros. hits of the year. The story has its romantic appeal despite the fact that Zazu Pitts bursts into song for the first time in her career. She helps Melton sing "Carry Me Back to the Lone Prairie." What else do you want? If you have a cracked lip stay at home. In case you are interested the picture is on at the Cameron Theatre Tuesday April 13.

The technicolor picture as a successful production finds wide appeal among theater patrons. "God's Country and the Woman" comes to the Cameron Theatre April 16 and 17. None but James Oliver Curwood could write such a story. If it's as good as the book, you must see it. It is a story of the north woods featuring George Brent who fits the role of the man outdoors in the land of mountains, snow and tall trees. It's a story of color and action way up in the north woods where men have fierce hearts and tender loves. It is a feud story. You know, the kind that gives you a thrill when strong men in rival lumber camps fight, win and lose.

compared to the electric refrigerator of comparatively few years ago, is a product that has been made available as a direct result of the demands of American housewives.

Mr. Michalka explained that while attending the convention he viewed improvements which heretofore were considered beyond the realm of possibility, but have been made available in the new Fairbanks-Morse line of refrigerators for 1937. Mr. Michalka states that the improvements are mainly in features which mean greater convenience to the housewife and the better preservation of food.

"Modern, up-to-date living standards, as exemplified by the American housewife, have been directly responsible for these vast changes in product design and most of the suggestions have come directly from housewives themselves," states Mr. Michalka "although the men of the home have also been directly responsible for improvements in mechanical operation, which promise to result in new low level operating cost."

The Decisive Indian Battle of Plum Creek

By HAROLD PREECE

Box 1564, University Station, Austin, Texas.
(Copyright, 1937, by the Home Color Print Co.)

FOR four years, following the Battle of San Jacinto, the white settlers in South Central Texas enjoyed peace. There was talk of a second Mexican invasion of Texas, but Mexico had internal troubles and could not equip an army for a second invasion.

However the Indians, always here in great numbers, had never become reconciled to the white man's occupation of lands to which they claimed a prior right. Heretofore the Indians had made sporadic raids in small bands, which the settlers were able to repulse, but in 1840 the Comanches and Kiowas united in a major offense to drive the white settlers from the borders of Texas.

Branch T. Archer, Secretary of War of the Republic of Texas, had warned the settlers for months to arm against an Indian uprising. But everybody went about their business serenely and gave no attention to the warning. They even joked about it and called it "The Archer War."

Nevertheless, the Secretary of War was right. In Indian villages for miles up and down the border tom-toms were beating and council fires burning; warriors were being summoned to battle. Chiefs and medicine men haranged the warriors to a high pitch of war frenzy and excitement. Renegade Mexicans, some of them in the pay of their government, visited Indian villages to further fan the flames of passion and hatred.

1,000 Picked Warriors

Picked warriors, from the Comanche and Kiowa tribes, mobilized into an invading force of about 1,000. On Aug. 15, 1840, this force appeared 15 miles east of Gonzales, committing depredations and murdering defenseless settlers. Next day they appeared before Victoria, killing persons on the outskirts of the town who had failed to escape. About 900 horses and mules, grazing on the prairie around Victoria, were rounded up and added to the loot of the Indians.

Most of the citizens of Victoria, warned in advance, had sought safety in stockade forts built for protection against Indian raids. Passing up Victoria, the Indians marched to Linville, a port town on Matagorda bay in Matagorda county. A mile below Victoria they came upon the Crosby home and made prisoners of Mrs. Crosby and her infant child. She was the granddaughter of Daniel Boone of Kentucky.

COLONEL ED BURLESON

Arriving at Linville, 50 miles below Victoria, the Indians immediately attacked the town. Fortunately some empty boats were tied up at port wharves, and in these most of the population escaped, except Major H. O. Watts and wife, a Mr. O'Neill and a negro slave. Major Watts and Mr. O'Neill were killed. Mrs. Watts and the negro slave made prisoners. Then the Indians proceeded to loot Linville, packing away the loot on backs of horses and mules. When through pillaging, the savages set fire to every building in town.

Little Opposition at First

So far the raiders met little opposition—the white men devoting most of their time and efforts to saving the women and children.

Loaded with Linville's loot and driving 900 horses and mules ahead of them, the Indians marched northwest toward Gonzales. Evidently they intended to attack Gonzales on the way out to their villages. Most of the Comanche and Kiowa villages lay west of the white settlements.

Meanwhile refugees spread the alarm and volunteers began to gather, but the raiders were in such force that the first volunteers could not cope with them and had to retreat after several skirmishes.

Progress of the raiders was slow, due to handling so much loot, which included all livestock they had stolen. This gave time for veteran Indian fighters like Ben McCulloch, Captain Matt (Old Paint) Caldwell, Captain James Byrd and Colonel Ed. Burleson to organize companies of volunteers throughout the settlements. It was agreed that these companies would unite at a point on Plum creek, 27 miles east of Austin, and from there intercept and give battle to the Comanches and Kiowas. When all volunteers had arrived at Plum creek they numbered only 200. Although odds greatly favored the Indians, the 200 Texans had made up their minds to fight to the death. They knew if the Indians won it would probably mean an end of white civilization in Texas. This battle was to be decisive and second in importance to Battle of San Jacinto.

Form Battle Lines

General Felix Huston was elected commander-in-chief of the 200 volunteers. At 6 a. m., the 12th of August, scouts reported the Indian army approaching Plum creek. When the Indians emerged from the timber along the creek they halted, seemingly surprised to meet an enemy who dared to face them and block their passage. They sent all pack and loose animals on ahead and hastily prepared for a stubborn resistance. About half of the warriors remained horseback, the other half dismounting to fight on foot. Their battle lines extended to the creek bottom—a strategic position—for the timber would protect and conceal their movements.

General Huston divided his forces into part infantry and part cavalry, both supporting one another. The cavalry under Burleson and Caldwell advanced to within gun range of the enemy. The Indian cavalry skirmished back and forth, but made no direct charge. One chief, riding horseback, exhibited himself wearing a "stovepipe" silk hat, a pair of red top boots, gloves and a broadcloth coat, buttoned up behind. He had taken this apparel from a store at Linville. He certainly looked all "dressed up," but ludicrous compared to his almost naked barbaric warriors. This chief, accompanied by his body guard, would ride swiftly in front of the Texans, yelling defiance and shooting his rifle. Several guns were aimed and fired at him, but he carried a rawhide shield which deflected the bullets. Finally a grizzled old Texan from Lavacca crawled through tall grass a little nearer to the skirmish line, took careful aim and shot the chief dead. Several warriors who tried to recover his body were killed.

Firing now became general on both sides. The Indians, with long-range Mexican rifles, had the advantage in firearms and were severely wounding some of the Texans. General Huston, inexperienced with Indian warfare, had formed his men into a hollow square, open in front, and exposed to the enemy's bullets and arrows.

The Texans Charge

Yielding to the advice of McCulloch,

Burleson and Caldwell, old frontiersmen and Indian fighters, General Huston ordered a charge. The Texans dashed forward irresistibly, pressing the Indians so hard and killing so many that their battle lines gave way. Chiefs tried desperately to rally the confused warriors. Groups here and there came to a stand and fought for a while, but at last the savages, completely demoralized, fled for their lives. The whites pursued, killing them relentlessly over a distance of 10 miles. "It was bloody work," a Plum creek fighter said after the battle, "but work that had to be done. If we hadn't whipped them they would have wiped out the white settlements in the Republic of Texas."

Before the Indians fled from the Plum creek battle, they killed Mrs. Crosby beside a clump of bushes, an arrow in her breast.

No Texas fighters were killed outright but a few were wounded, one of the wounded dying later. Much of the loot the Indians had stolen was recovered, including about 250 head of horses and mules.

It is not definitely known how many Indians were killed and wounded in the battle, but it is estimated that about 138 were killed and twice this number wounded. Most of the wounded were rescued by companion warriors.

While the Plum creek battle was decisive, breaking the power of the Comanches and Kiowa tribes in Texas, yet it failed to entirely stop Indian depredations. However, it re-established white supremacy and reduced Indian raiding to small scattered bands that only attacked isolated settlers.

A Dirt Farmer's Experience

By AVIS PLATTER

Route 1, Edgewood, Texas.

(Copyright, 1937, by the Home Color Print Co.)

HAVE found farm life pleasant, healthful and profitable," says S. A. Neely, a well known farmer of Van Zandt county, Texas. When asked by the writer to tell more about his farm experiences, Mr. Neely spoke as follows:

"Listlessness and don't care methods will hold a farmer down, put him in a rut and place him among the poorer of his class.

"Farming is a challenge to red-blooded Americans, whether you are young or old. In my early work as a farmer I planned to get rich fast. I planted year after year only one crop—cotton—and depended on it for the upkeep of home and family. Results, I nearly always was obliged to seek financial aid for the next year's crop.

"A lesson I learned was that I could never accomplish anything by wishing or dreaming. In the end I was forced to use horse sense and plenty of energy. I have always believed, 'Where there's a will there's a way.'

Cuts Down Acreage

"Too often I had slaved to harvest a bountiful yield of cotton—then see it hit rock-bottom prices which forced my previous debts over into the next year.

"I began to reform by cutting my basal crop acreage down to half, adding a few acres of various other crops. I planted a few acres of cotton, our basal money crop in this country, and then began to consider stock-feed. Heretofore, I had always bought most of my feed.

"I figured my corn needs and then added a little for good measure, or surplus, and also planted some sorghum for roughage. Then I planted a few side crops that proved a good investment.

"First, I planted a good-sized patch of early peas. When they began to fill out, I went to Dallas and had no trouble making a contract to dispose of my earliest pickings at a fair profit. The rest were picked dry, threshed and stored. I managed to sell a few around home, but kept most of them over until next spring to sell as seed. I received a fair price for the seed. Another thing I learned about peas is that they make excellent chicken feed. Hens lay fairly well on this diet if they have sour milk added. I cut the pea vines and baled them for hay. I seldom need all the hay, so I sell part of it for cash and trade part.

Easy to Glut Market

"In time I learned to use my eyes and ears and not to go in too heavy with a crop that all others are planting. It is easy to glut a market by over-producing.

"I usually net a reasonable profit off my potato patch. I always plant both sweet and Irish potatoes, and allow some extras for chance sales and trades.

One time I exchanged a bushel of spuds for a jar of face cream and a box of powder for my daughter. Another time a fellow came along taking subscriptions. He convinced me that the family should do more reading. I subscribed for a magazine, a newspaper and bought several pretty good books. But I didn't pay cash. I just swapped him potatoes and some peanut hay for his reading material. I paid for a young heifer and a gilt pig one year with money that I got out of potatoes.

"I nearly always stay on top with peanuts. I plow them up when mature, then drive down the rows and thresh off the nuts over the back end gate of the wagon as the vines are shaken and piled. I bale the vines for hay. Those not threshed are baled with the nuts on. Neighbors sometimes need peanut seed or want them for eating purposes and are glad to exchange work for peanuts or buy them outright.

Living-at-Home

"Peanuts and peanut hay make the best feed for milk cows, and they'll fatten hogs. Just turn the hogs in the patch and they will know what to do.

"A living-at-home for the family and feed for the livestock does more to keep a farmer on his feet than anything else.

"A few surplus pigs and shoats help out in tight places. They always sell for cash at some price. They come in handy if one is on a trade and something additional is needed to put over the trade. Horse trades often invite a shoat or two. I paid the last installment on my first model T Ford with shoats and one heifer.

"Cows are probably the farm's greatest asset. I have come to depend largely on my cows. We sold $18 worth of cream off the milk of three cows last July and August. And we had butter on the table every day and ice cream three to four times a week. An extra milk cow is a refuge for a poor man's family. Yearlings come in handy. If the price on foot is not good, one can usually butcher and peddle the beef.

"Since pressure cookers came into use I bought one and we can a yearling every spring and fall. Speaking of cookers, I wouldn't do without one. We have a lot more canned stuff than we used to have and a greater variety, which gives the family a more balanced diet. Our health is better since we bought the canner.

"I sometimes exchange goods such as meats and vegetables we can at home for things we cannot grow on the farm.

"It's farm life for me. I wouldn't live in town if I could get groceries and house rent free."

Clue to the Long Lost Bowie Mine

By M. D. SHIRLEY

Editor Menard News, Menard, Texas.

(Copyright, 1937, by the Home Color Print Co.)

RA S. COLLIER, geologist, after extensive explorations in Menard county, is of the opinion that the Lost Bowie Mine is a legendary myth; at least, if there were such a mine he does not believe it as rich as the legend proclaims.

The Lost Bowie Mine has been a subject of legendary tales for almost a century. Practically all the tales credit the mine with fabulously rich deposits—so rich that pure silver ore could be dug out in chunks with a pick-axe.

This legend says that Col. James Bowie, hero of the Alamo, headed an expeditionary force from San Antonio in 1836 to seek out the mine, located somewhere on the San Saba river, near the old Spanish mission-fort, Presidio San Louis de las Amerillas, in Menard county. When friendly Indians, with whom Col. Bowie once lived, tipped him off as to the location and richness of the mine, he organized 8 trusty men and set out from San Antonio toward the west. As they neared Calf creek, 20 miles east of what is now Menard, they were attacked by Indians. The Indians were repulsed and defeated, but the men under Bowie ran out of ammunition, had several wounded companions as a result of the fight and were compelled to return to San Antonio without discovering the mine. Soon afterward Colonel Bowie was killed in the Alamo and with him died the secret location of the mine. So runs the legend. It further says that Colonel Bowie left a chart, showing the mine's location.

Still Seeking Bowie's Mine

Over a period of many years men with charts and maps have vainly sought the Lost Bowie Mine. Their faith is sublime in the face of repeated failures. Even now, in Western Menard county, men are blasting through solid limestone, guided by a chart that purports to show the location of the old mine. Just a few days ago a man, whom I know well, came into my office and asked my help in locating certain tracts of land on which he believed would be found the Bowie Mine. He produced a time-stained chart that he said had been in his family for three generations, said chart having been made by his grandfather who, as a Texas ranger was stationed on the San Saba river, near the old Spanish mission-fort, when Menard county was a part of Bexar county. His grandfather, he confided, while repelling an Indian raid, stumbled into an old mining shaft, made a chart of it, but never had time to explore the rich deposits that he says undoubtedly lie at the bottom of the shaft.

Mr. Collier's excavations of silver-bearing the building almost 200 years ago, obtained the metal for moulding their silver-lead bullets which have been found in abundance about the old mission. It is possible that Indians, learning the value of this ore from the Spaniards, later carried it to San Antonio to barter for merchandise. Through these Indians Colonel Bowie might have learned about mining activities of the Spaniards who occupied the old mission.

Collier thinks the Spaniards, always looking for gold and silver, did considerable prospecting in this section of Texas. In the old deserted mission building he found a room, evidently used as a laboratory, where ash and slag indicated that assaying and smelting had been done on an extensive scale.

Silver Ore in Pennsylvania Sand

For 20 years Mr. Collier has roamed the hills within a radius of 100 miles of Menard, studying rock structures. He knows his rocks and can prove that the Spaniards and Indians obtained silver-bearing ore from a Pennsylvania sand that outcrops in the vicinity of Presidio San Louis de las Amerillas; also that the same Pennsylvania sand outcrops in the bed of the San Saba river, 10 miles east of Menard. This sand in the river, a silver compound deposit, Mr. Collier says will assay $30 to $35 per ton. It has a width of about 300 feet, but its depth is unknown because it extends into the river and is covered by water so deep that diving is necessary to obtain specimens for assay.

Through his knowledge of mining, ore tests, and what he has seen in and around the old Spanish mission, Collier is convinced that the long Lost Bowie Mine will continue to be lost and that there is no pure silver ore anywhere in Central West Texas, but there is silver, intermixed with other metals, here in paying quantities. However, to separate this silver from the baser metals for commercial use would require an investment of thousands of dollars in mining machinery.

Mining Activities of Spaniards

Collier has discovered that silver-lead ore was smelted in small quantities at the old mission-fort. From this source he believes the Spaniards, who occupied ing ore around the old Spanish mission-fort, and his assays, possibly reveal a clue to the famous Bowie Mine, if there be such a mine. The old mission, now in ruins, is situated a mile and a half west of the town of Menard, on the north bank of the San Saba river. Built by a Spanish expeditionary force in 1756, it was destroyed by Indians in 1792. It is now being restored to its original form as part of the Texas Centennial program.

CURRENT (EDITORIAL) COMMENT

Sympathy of a Nation

THE sympathy of a nation went out to the little stricken town of London, Rusk county, Texas, in the recent tragic loss of 455 lives caused by an explosion of gas under the basement flooring of its consolidated school building. Men toiled for long hours in the wreckage without sleep or food to recover the broken bodies of the little school children. Such an example of lofty courage and unselfish service strengthens our faith in human relations. This is not so cold a world as some folk would believe. We like to know there are still men and women ready and willing to make a supreme sacrifice in a cause which was so dire and needful.

Claims of Old Age

A few weeks ago an old negro died in Texas. The papers said that his claim to be 117 years old was supported by other evidence than his own word. We read rather often about some old person, usually an illiterate, who is much more than 100. There is often reason for doubt about these claims of extreme longevity. Even birth certificates may not be conclusive evidence; sometimes a mother and child of a father and son have the same name; it also happens that a child born after the death of an older brother or sister is given the name of his older brother or sister. Confusion in finding the proper record of birth certificates may result.

Our life insurance companies exercise much care in selecting healthy, vigorous people, with long-lived ancestors, as risks. Of the many millions holding their policies during the last 150 years no one has lived beyond 106. They consider that age the extreme limit of human life.

Many of their policy-holders have died between 100 and 106. More than twice as many women as men reached that advanced age. In the time of Charles I of England there was an old man by the name of Thomas Parr, familiarly known as "Old Parr." The king brought him to London and gave him quarters in Westminster Abbey, where he died in 1635 at the age of 152, as he himself said and as was generally believed. The actuaries of the insurance companies tell us that they doubt the claim, for there is not any documentary evidence to support it. These actuaries also tell us that our life span (since the days of Methuselah) has not been materially shortened.

Rivalry

Charles Schwab, the great steel magnate, once said: "The way to get things done is to stimulate competition." The desire to excel the other fellow is a strong incentive for most of us. Long ago the Jesuits whose schools have always been considered among the best, discovered the value of the right kind of rivalry as a stimulus to effort. They assigned to every pupil a rival of equal natural ability; this rival was called an emulus. In the competition between the two they secured the best work from each. Modern teachers offer prizes. All school sports lead to championships. It is well to try to excel others in all rightful endeavor.

But rivalry at times seems foolish. What satisfaction one can get in sitting on top of a pole or tree longer than some other one surpasses our understanding. We note that one man in a competition ate 300 eggs; another ate 6 dozen bananas; another drank a gallon of beer, and still another "hero" ate a blackberry pie with hands tied behind him more quickly than his competitors. Schools and colleges have long had contests to decide what girl is the most beautiful. But, would you believe it, two of our colleges have already had contests to select the ugliest boy in the school, a distinction for which we should think no boy would be ambitious. And now we are to have a State contest in which all these college champions are to be exhibited to determine the champion ugly boy among all the students in Texas. It takes all kinds of people to make a world. These ugly boys get their pictures in the newspapers, and that may make them feel important, but it does not show they have been efficient in any line of endeavor.

Accidents

It is computed that last year we lost nearly four million dollars and more than one hundred thousand lives through accidents. The automobile accounted for 38,500 deaths, of whom 16,650 were pedestrians. We are accustomed to think of home as the safest of places, but 39,000 persons were killed in our homes last year. Burns destroyed 9,000; firearms 3,000. Railroad fatalities amounted to 4,000.

We say that the causes of these deaths are accidents. They are not accidents in the sense that they "just happened." There was an underlying cause for every one of them. If a woman pours coal oil on live coals, or a child swishes a cotton dress into a flame, or a man sitting in a tenth-story window loses his balance and falls, the resulting catastrophe is not an accident. Nature works true to form and law. We always suffer if we violate her laws. Parents have to look after their children, but those of us beyond childhood should have learned that nature is not going to look after us or set aside her laws to shield us from harm.

Pictures

Not long ago a librarian remarked: "What is the matter with 12-year-old children these days? Most of them cannot read; they can only look at pictures." A glance at the display of magazines on the racks of newstands would offer evidence that the same criticism would apply to a large part of adult readers. On these stands you may see numerous picture magazines—not only for children and women, but for men as well. Turn the pages, and you will find a few of them devoted to pictures of current happenings, some to fashions, and many more to Hollywood and other beauties that are nude, or nearly so. One of the most popular of these magazines, in a late issue, had pages of sculptured pictures by a great artist who must have visited numerous nudist colonies in his search for models.

Magazines of mystery and detective stories are not so bad if sparingly read, but many readers seem to become gluttonous for this kind of thing, and never develop a taste for good literature. Then there are magazines displayed on newstands that appeal to sordid sex instincts. Pictures on the covers and the suggestive titles of the stories indicate what you may expect to find within. Dealers say there is a demand for these things and that they are selling what the people want.

All of us like to look at pictures; they have educational value. But interest solely in pictures indicate a degree of mental inferiority. Reading is a determining factor in our social, moral and intellectual lives. It moulds character for either good or bad.

The Number of Necessary Words

Those who have investigated tell us that the ordinary individual uses not more than 500 words in conversation. The conversational vocabulary of even a well-educated man is rather limited. We use the word "I" more than any other. This is natural, for to everyone our own self is the most important thing in the world. The various forms to the verbs "be" and "have" are much used, and the verb "got" is overworked by almost everyone. We are so fond of it that we throw it in where it is altogether superfluous.

The creators of various artificial world languages, such as Volapuk and Esperanto, recognized that a comparatively small vocabulary will suffice for social and business needs. Due perhaps to the fact that they are artificial, these languages have not had great vogue.

There is greater hope that Basic English will become nearly universal. Basic English consists of only 850 words, all English. English is spoken by more people than any other language in the world. It is good to know that Basic English is making rapid progress. Classes in it are now being taught in places as widely apart as Copenhagen, Singapore, and Buenos Aires.

Chemists Find More Uses for Cotton

"American industry had found more than 10,000 new uses for cotton, backbone crop of Southern agriculture," said Dr. E. K. Bolton, chemical director for E. I. duPont de Nemours Company.

"The average person thinks of the crop as only the base for textile products, but research chemists have been quietly working toward expanding domestic demand through new uses. Among the new uses, far removed from textiles, are costume jewelry, fishing tackle, spare fingernails, X-ray film, shatterproof glass, smokeless gunpowder, artificial sponges, fountain pens, book covers and thousands of other unrelated things, tracing their ancestry to some Southern cotton patch.

"The chemist has made his products, for the most part, not from the cotton staple, but from the plant's cellulose and from linters covering the seed. Cellulose is the fibrous structure in the cotton stalk.

"The automobile industry has furnished a market for other developments of cotton, chief of which were coated textiles and varnish finishes. Manufacturers in painting their autos were formerly at a disadvantage in mass output, because it took twenty-two coats of paint to varnish one auto body. This required six weeks' time. With the invention of nitrocellulose duPont chemists found a way to convert it into a fast-drying lacquer that could be applied with a spray gun, cutting the time for varnishing an auto body to one day.

The Rearmament Race

All nations are rearming—some with feverish haste—getting ready for the day of battle, which may come at any time. They have trained large standing armies and a still larger number of reserves. Huge sums are being expended in this rearmament program.

Japan has appropriated for her army for the next five years $1,808,250,000, to say nothing of her navy. She has 280,000 soldiers in active service, and a trained reserve of 1,895,000 soldiers. We do not know the number in her air force. Nor do we know how much Russia, Italy and Germany may be spending in preparation for war. Russia has an active force of 1,185,000 and a reserve of 14,590,000 men. She has announced, officially, that her air force numbered at least 150,000. This statement was made in reply to a German boast of 70,000 aviators. Italy has under arms 1,111,593 men, a reserve of 5,214,368 men, and claims to have more than 200,000 aviators. France has in active service 600,505 and a reserve of 5,500,000 men; she also has a separate air force of 34,352 men.

Great Britain, (not the British Empire), has 205,454 men under arms and a reserve of 278,847 men; her air force numbers 44,407 men. In the fall of 1935 she could not call Italy's hand in the Abyssinian War because her air force and her navy were deemed inadequate. For the same reason, apparently, she has temporized with Germany. Determined not to be caught napping any longer, the British Parliament has passed a bill appropriating $7,500,000,000 for preparation for a war looked upon as inevitable. This means that for the next five years England will spend more than $4,100,000 a day, $170,000 an hour, $2,850 a minute and $47 a second for war material equipment. The people of England do not want war; nor do the people of any nation. But England wants ships, guns, armaments and armaments to protect herself, and she is spending this immense sum for that purpose.

In 1936 the United States spent $445,900,068 on her army and $391,424,217 on navy, a total of more than half of what England expects to spend each year during the next five years, or about $25 a second. The United States now has an active force of 137,960 men and a reserve of 300,104 men. Both army and navy are calling for more men, more guns, more ships, more war planes, more war money. For instance, our navy wants $500,000,000 for next year's budget. We are slow to censure, for we believe our army and navy officer to be true patriots, and are not asking more than they consider necessary for our protection in this war-scarred world.

The foregoing figures are taken, with one exception, from the World Almanac, 1937, and from the Army and Navy Journal.

Airplane Routes in Texas

Ten of the fifty-five airplane transport routes in the United States touch Texas. These routes are: Chicago-Fort Worth via St. Louis and Tulsa 940 miles, two round trips a day; New York-Los Angeles via Memphis, Dallas, and Fort Worth, 2,649 air miles, two round trips a day; Chicago-Los Angeles via Nashville, Dallas, and Fort Worth, 2,649 miles, daily; Chicago-Dallas via Wichita and Fort Worth, 965 miles, two trips a day; Amarillo-Dallas-Galveston, 618 miles, daily; Dallas-Houston, 225 miles, daily; Dallas-Brownsville, 546 miles, daily; Houston-Corpus Christi, 186 miles, daily; Dallas-Corpus Christi, 413 miles, daily; Fort Worth-Atlanta, 784 miles, two daily.

LAST INDIAN BATTLE SITE MARKED

The site of the last fight in Texas between U. S. soldiers and Indians has been marked by the Texas Centennial Commission, on the summit of what is now known as Indian Mountain, in Irion county, about 30 miles southwest of San Angelo. The legend on the marker reads: "Around this mountain a battle was fought on January 8, 1865, between 2,000 Indians and Texas and U. S. troops commanded by Capt. John Fosssett and S. S. Totten. Four officers and 22 of their men lie in unmarked graves nearby."

AFTER the ice is all gone and "old mother nature" kicks the cover off and beckons to all her children that it is time to get up, how good it will feel. But to live where it is perpetual summer would be monotonous. We would never know how good a fire feels when a blizzard blows, never know the flavor of freshly killed spareribs and backbone and never know what advice to follow in the treatment of colds and frost-bit feet.

Some people think they have a hard time making a living when they have the whole government to depend on. Think what our forefathers went through when they had nothing but a bull-tongue plow and calomel to depend on.

People used to pray for "peace on earth, good will to men." But England is going to spend seven and a half billion dollars on armament, probably with the thought that it will be safer to raise that vast sum of money for war defense than have her people pray for peace. We still think prayers would get better results.

We have become such fiends for everything modern and up-to-date we are surprised at the opposition stirred up to stream-line and air-condition the Supreme Court.

One nation-wide straw vote showed 52 per cent agin' it and 48 per cent for it. If the next straw vote shows 50-50 we'll know it's a tie and nobody licked.

Geologists tell us that Scotland is drifting toward America at the rate of 8 feet per year. Those Scots are canny. They know if they come in under full steam with banners flying and bands playing the immigration authorities will stop 'em, but if they slip in at the rate of just 8 feet a year nothing will be done about it.

Modern scientific methods has stepped up egg-production to a surprising degree, but if the hens get next to the scheme of lighting up hen houses at night to increase egg-production they might stage a "set-down" strike.

"Trying to keep up with the Jones'."

A man asked the writer if he was sent to the legislature to enact laws to stop automobile accidents what laws would he enact? I told him I would not enact any, that we already have enough laws, but if I really wanted to stop auto accidents I would make a law for only one auto to operate in a county and the rest of us ride in ox-drawn wagons, for you never heard of an ox-team climbing telephone poles or trees, flopping over in the middle of the road, going around curves at 60 miles an hour or running down pedestrians. This may sound ridiculous but we are talking about stopping auto accidents and nothing else will do it.

A man who was never known to own two pair of pants and who never had over three meals ahead in his home said for the first time in life he experienced a sense of comfort in being poor when he watched a man, who got rich in oil, trying to make out his income tax report. Being poor has its compensations, and nature evens things up pretty well. About the only difference in being poor or rich is that the poor wonder when theirs is coming and the rich wonder when theirs is going.

BRIEF TEXAS NEWS---from Over the State

FENCE POSTS OF PETRIFIED WOOD

Petrified wood of various shapes has been found in Jack county. One man's yard fence is composed of stone posts, with knots plainly visible, where limbs once grew.

99-YEAR-OLD MAN DRIVES AUTO

J. B. Kelsey 99-year-old retired oil man of Harlingen, drives his automobile daily to and from his citrus orchard. He is believed to be the oldest person in Texas with a driver's license.

NATIVE TEXAN 102

Inez Perez, born in Brownsville, Texas, February 12, 1835, celebrated his 102nd birthday at his son's home in Austin. Most of his life has been spent working outdoors on Texas farms.

INCOME FROM PARKING METERS $10,000 MONTHLY

Parking meters on the streets of Dallas produce an average income of almost $10,000 monthly, according to a report of Hal Mosely, city manager.

VOLCANIC ASH DEPOSIT

A huge deposit of volcanic ash, the basis of washing compounds, has been found in the "lost river" bottoms west of Big Spring. The pumiceous deposits are in large hills and almost free of deleterious elements.

COP WEIGHS 333 POUNDS

B. B. (Tiny) Gardner, of Dallas, is believed to be the world's biggest policeman. He weighs 333 pounds, and became the nation's biggest cop when Sgt. Patrick J. Kelly, of the Summit, N. J., police force, reduced from 429 to 388 pounds.

GIANT ROSE BUSH

Mrs. Ralph E. Smith, 1739 Lakeshore Drive, Port Arthur, has a Louis Philippe rose bush which is 16 feet high, 26 years old, with a spread of 18 feet. It has attracted rose lovers from all sections of the United States.

TEXAS WOMAN IS HONORED

Miss Helen Johnson, Brownsville aviator, has been elected State governor of the National Aeronautical Association by the directory board at Washington. She is the first woman in any State to receive this honor.

REMAINS OF PREHISTORIC RACE

Bones of three persons, of a prehistoric race who once inhabited West Texas, have been unearthed and added to the Stamford high school museum. They were found in a shallow, rock-lined grave near Moran. Archaeologists estimate the bodies were buried 500 to 1,000 years ago.

92-YEAR-OLD WOMAN APPLIES FOR CITIZENSHIP PAPERS

Mrs. Emline Hassar LaChappelle, 92, who has lived in San Antonio 85 years, voting during the past twelve years, recently applied for United States naturalization papers. When asked why she had not applied before, she replied: "I've been too busy raising my family." She is a native of Germany.

16 A. D. COIN FOUND

Mrs. Charles G. Barrett, of Huntsville, has a medal made from a coin that she believes is one of 100 struck between 16 and 19 A. D. by order of Germanicus, a Roman general, to commemorate a brave deed by his bodyguard of 100 soldiers. The medal was found near the border line of England and Scotland about 40 years ago by a Texas friend of Mrs. Barrett's husband. University of Texas authorities, after examining the medal coin, pronounced it genuine.

MARKER ERECTED AT SITE OF FIRST TEXAS MISSION

One of the outstanding Centennial monuments in Texas is at Ysleta, near El Paso, which designates the first mission built in this State. The inscription on the marker reads as follows:

"Site of the first mission in Texas, Corpus Christi de la Ysleta del Sur, founded in 1682 by Don Antonio de Otermin and Padre Fray Francisco Ayeta, O. F. M., for the civilization and christianizing of the Tiguas Indians, Pueblo revolt refugees, formerly located at La Ysleta, N. M. Building damaged by floods of the Rio Grande and later by fire, but rebuilt on the exact site and in part on the walls of the original structure."

40 PER CENT YOUTHS IN TEXAS PENITENTIARIES.

The 1936 report of W. M. Thompson, chief of the Bureau of Records and Identification of the Texas prison system, reveals that of the 5,948 prisoners incarcerated on December 31, 1936, 2,379 were between the ages of 17 and 25 years.

Classified by occupations, there were 115 barbers, 220 chauffeurs and auto mechanics, 408 cooks and waiters, 390 laborers and 280 farmers.

BACHELORS PREDOMINATE

Statistical reports show that bachelors predominate in Alice, Jim Wells county. They outnumber women 21 to 1, a disparity that may be due to the large oil fields near Alice. There are 2,191 families in the town with an average of 3.6 persons per family.

4.2 YEARS AVERAGE RURAL AUTO AGE

The average auto passenger age in rural Texas is 4.2 years, said J. T. Burton, financial director of the State-Federal highway planning survey. An automobile, he says, will last 4.3 years in Bell county compared to 3.0 years in Hidalgo county.

FARMER KEEPS WEATHER DATA

When citizens of the Burns City community, Cooke county, discuss weather they depend upon John Dawson, who calls himself the "One Gallus farmer," to settle all weather arguments. For a half century he has kept records of temperature, rain and snow, cloudy and partly cloudy days, and dates of early frosts. His meteorological instruments are home-made.

TOO MUCH SPEED

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported that 26 per cent of accidents in which 1,885 persons were killed in Texas last year were caused by excessive speed.

Of the total, 48 per cent were passengers, 30 per cent drivers and 22 per cent pedestrians.

More than half the fatalities happened in rural areas.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS HAS $56,613,249 ASSETS

An audit of the University of Texas, released by President H. Y. Benedict, shows total assets of $56,613,249 at the main university and Galveston medical branch.

13-YEAR-OLD GIRL SELLS POEM FOR $50

A 13-year-old Kerrville girl in the sixth grade, Essie May Bartholomew, has sold a 16-line poem to the Crowell Publishing Company for $50.00. The poem is entitled "Mother," and was written by the girl in memory of her mother who died in 1934.

100-YEAR-OLD PECAN TREES

Pecan trees 100 years old are growing on a farm owned by Val Wright of Buna, Newton county. The great-grandfather of the present owner settled on the farm. The trees, planted by Wright's uncle, are estimated to be 100 years old, and marks one of the oldest settlements in the State.

DAUGHTER OF 1812 DIES

Miss Fannie George Jones, a real daughter of 1812, died at San Antonio, February 22nd. She was a daughter of Augusta Jones who served as a captain in the War of 1812 and a private in the Mexican War. A Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 in San Antonio is named for him.

COMMEMORATE BIRTH OF TEXAS REPUBLIC

Descendants of the fifty-eight signers of the Texas Declaration of Independence were honor guests at a mammoth patriotic celebration staged at Old Washington-on-the-Brazos March 2. Nearly 8,000 Texans from every section of the State flocked to Washington State Park for the event which commemorated the 101st anniversary of the birth of the Texas Republic.

DRIVES BUS 50,000 MILES WITHOUT MISHAP

Fred H. Rogers, 32-year-old school bus driver from Genoa to Pasadena, near Houston, has completed 50,000 miles of driving without an accident of any kind. He has never had a traffic ticket, either as a private driver or as a bus driver. He has been driving the bus since 1930.

"There's one message I'd like to get over," Rogers said. "I appeal to drivers of private cars to regard school buses as being within a sort of safety zone. There is a very special need for care when the children are getting on and off the bus."

NO JOKE IN THESE FIGURES

The goat is made the butt of many jokes, but last year the 2,980,000 goats in Texas produced 13,400,000 pounds of mohair, valued at $20,000,000, which was 85 percent of the nation's total.

SCRAP IRON FOR ARMAMENT

Scrap iron from Texas is being shipped abroad in large quantities to be used in the manufacture of armaments, according to a dispatch in the Austin American-Statesman. Iron, copper, and other metals that have lain in junk yards for years are being assembled and shipped by boat loads to Japan and other European countries.

BABY HAS EIGHT LIVING GRANDPARENTS

Dorothy Ray Ford, born February 12, 1937, has eight living grandparents. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ford, Jr., 2318 Bosque Boulevard, Waco, a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ford, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Bekken of Waco, and a great-granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilhelm of Waco and Mrs. Mary Bekken and Mrs. John Ragsdale of Clifton.

CHURCH CELEBRATES 62nd ANNIVERSARY

The Palm Valley Lutheran Church, in Williamson county, was founded on Sunday, February 14, 1875, and this year observed its 62nd anniversary. Mrs. P. J. Peterson and C. A. Bjork were the only two of the original members present at the anniversary. Both have been members of the church since its founding and both now have great-grandchildren on its membership rolls.

Shirley Gregg's trench silo, Gregg community, Travis county. Dug in 1935, this silo is 8 feet deep and 150 feet long. Gregg fed 300 sheep and several hundred head of other livestock from contents of the silo.

BIG BEND HAS BIG RIDDLES

Unsolved mysteries of the Texas Big Bend country are being sought by geologists in answer to such riddles as the source of extensive volcanic beds in the Chisos mountains, and the story behind remnants of prehistoric animals that have been found in areas of the proposed Big Bend National Park.

TEXAS SECOND IN OLD AGE PENSIONS

Figures from the Social Security Board, received by State pension headquarters, show that Texas is now paying pensions to a larger number of its aged people than any other State excepting Ohio.

The average old age assistance payments in Texas was $15.48; Alabama, $10.00; Louisiana, $12.59; Arkansas, 9; Oklahoma, $11.54.

TWO TEXAS RIVERS DISAPPEAR IN SANDS

Texas has two rivers which disappear in sands at intervals. The Nueces and Frio rivers sometimes flow to certain spots and then mysteriously stop flowing. N. P. Turner, Jr., engineer for the Texas Planning Board, credits the phenomena to porous ground formations which absorb the water flow. "As these two rivers cross the Balcones Fault zone along the northern line of Uvalde county," he said, "they sometimes are swallowed up. Within a distance of three miles they lose so much water that at low stages the entire flow of both sink into the sands. And no one is absolutely sure where the water goes."

BURIED WHERE HE WAS BORN

William L. Daniel, age 74, was born in the same house at 2600 Lovers Lane, Dallas, in which he recently died, and was buried in the family cemetery on the same plot of ground where he spent his 74 years. He was a retired farmer.

BOY ASKS FARLEY FOR BARGAIN RATE ON STAMPS

Wayne Bronson, 11-year-old tuberculosis patient at a Fremont sanitarium, requested a bargain rate on stamps in a letter to Postmaster General James A. Farley. In reply, Mr. Farley sent a package of 50 3-cent stamps and a number of special stamp "covers" of "first editions" to start Wayne's stamp collection. He expressed regret that no special rate could be extended.

FIRST SUBCOURTHOUSE IN TEXAS

A subcourthouse, the only building of its kind in Texas, has been completed at Port Arthur at a cost of $227,350. A branch courthouse may be built in a city other than the county seat when the city reaches a population of 50,000. Jefferson is the only county in the State where this condition exists. The 1930 census gave Port Arthur a population of 50,902.

LATE RECOGNITION FOR SERVICE

After 19 years, George Lawson Keene, Goose Creek jeweler, has been recognized and honored for World War service. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, one of the United States government's highest recognitions for gallantry in action in time of war.

CHECK YOUR GAS PIPE LINES

A warning has been issued, following the tragic accident at London, Rusk county, where an explosion of accumulated gas under the basement flooring wrecked the consolidated school building and killed about 455 of the school children and teachers, that all persons using gas for either heating or cooking have their gas lines thoroughly inspected. Gas pipe lines long in use rust out and sometimes break from pressure above or from contraction and expansion of the earth's crusts.

HEBREW VOLUME 218 YEARS OLD

The "Five Books of Moses" in Hebrew, is an heirloom of the Block family, pioneer residents of Rio Grande City, in Starr county. The volume was printed 218 years ago and has been well preserved.

MIXING BOWL PRIZED

A 50-pound Indian metate, (mixing bowl), perfectly preserved, was found embedded in the red buttes of Salt Fork, near Clarendon, by G. C. Heath, of Hedley. The stone, apparently used for grinding food, had a small hole at the bottom of the basin.

40,000 CROWS MEET DOOM

About 40,000 crows were killed when 50 sticks of dynamite were set off at a crow's roost, two miles east of the Oklahoma line, near Wellington, Collinsworth county, Texas. The crows have been devastating fields and feed in the grain belt section of the Panhandle.

UVALDE CANYON

Uvalde canyon, 90 miles northwest of San Antonio and the scene of a sanguinary battle between Indians and Mexican soldiers in 1786, was named for General Juan De Ugalde, Governor of Coahuila in 1778, according to old records found at Montell in Uvalde county. The canyon is 25 miles long, from three to eight miles wide, and is in both Uvalde and Bandera counties.

U. S. ARMY POST NEVER GARRISONED

C. Espy Miller owns a United States Army post on his cattle ranch, 12 miles west of Valentine, which was never garrisoned. The War Department constructed the post at a cost of $100,000, naming it "Camp Holland," but never detailed troops to garrison it. When peace came to the borderland the post and surrounding grounds were sold.

KILLS COYOTES WITH BOW AND ARROW

Charles Stone, of Corpus Christi, uses primitive weapons, the ancient bow and arrow, to kill coyotes. He formerly lived on his father's ranch, near Marfa, but is now a member of the British Air Corps.

WALKS HALF MILE ON CRUTCHES TO VOTE

Just to prove men past 90 are still young, C. M. Eldridge, Civil War veteran who will be 92 years old next July, walked half a mile on crutches to vote in the Denison Herald's poll on the supreme court issue. He moved to Denison in 1885.

TEXAS HOTEL BUSINESS $26,984,000 IN 1935

The 1724 hotels in Texas reported receipts amounting to $26,984,000 for the year ending December, 1935, according to the Bureau of Census. More than one-half of the hotels in the west south central section of the United States are located in Texas.

STATE'S FIRST ADJUTANT GENERAL REINTERRED

The remains of Col. William G. Cooke, first adjutant general of Texas, have been moved from near Seguin and reinterred in the State cemetery at Austin. He was a Virginian and came to Texas with volunteers from New Orleans and was on Gen. Houston's staff at the Battle of San Jacinto.

RED CONCH A RARITY

The red conch, (fulgur preversa), found on Corpus Christi bay is to the shell collector a rarity in the snail family, says Dr. Hal B. Parks, of the Corpus Christi Junior College. The fate of the red conch is similar to that of most sea dwellers—after reaching a definite size it is coveted by the hermit crab which moves in and uses the shell for a home.

PADRE ISLAND PROJECT

Former Senator C. C. Hastings, of New York, representing a group of New York business men, has completed plans for construction of a causeway, hotel and tourist entertainment facilities on Padre Island at Brownsville. The project will represent an investment of about one-half million dollars.

RETIRED POSTMAN TRAVELED 400,000 MILES

Joseph F. Knapik, age 65, has been retired from active service as mail carrier after traveling more than 400,000 miles during his 30 years of duty. He had a 59-mile route, the Scenic Loop near San Antonio, which is the second longest scenic highway in the United States.

STRIKES OIL IN CITY LIMITS

A half-barrel-a-day oil well was "brought in" at 29½ feet within the city limits of Stamford while Mexicans were digging a water well to supply the Stamford Refinery boilers. There are no nearby underground storage tanks that might have caused the near-surface flow of oil.

BOUGHT GLASS FOR DIAMONDS

Mrs. Yetta Slomovitz, 1805 Hamilton Street, Houston, bought 16 glass diamonds for $1300 from two strange young men who had asked her for something to eat. They called a "diamond expert" by phone to appraise the stones. The "expert," a confederate, valued the stones at $9,000. Mrs. Slomovitz later found that the sixteen so-called diamonds were nothing but glass.

BELIEVED TO BE BONES OF ALAMO OFFICERS

Human bones found in the chancel of San Fernando Cathedral, in San Antonio last July, were in part those of Col. William Barrett Travis, Col. David Crockett, and Col. James Bowie, according to the belief of S. Deane Wasson, historian and writer.

Texas histories report that the bodies of all men killed in the Alamo battle were burned by order of Santa Anna, but a Mexican, who was mayor of San Antonio at the time of the battle, said that Santa Anna asked him to point out the bodies of Travis, Crockett and Bowie before they were removed from the Alamo.

SPEED—THEN AND NOW

Given a super-high way cleared of all traffic from coast to coast, Capt. George Eyston, the English racing driver, could cross the country in his high-powered car, Speed of the Winds, in just 24 hours. The captain recently covered 6,545 miles in 48 hours at an average speed of better than 136 miles an hour on the famous Bonneville Salt Flats, in Utah.

Such a cross-country record would be only one-sixty-fourth of the time it took the first automobile to cross the country.

The first trip was made in 1903 by Dr. H. Nelson Jackson, a Vermont physician; his chauffeur, Sewell K.

Crocker, and a stray white dog named "Bud," picked up on the way.

The two adventurers carried a compass, slept in the open and had to hire a cowboy at one point to guide them across roadless sage brush country. They used a block and tackle to haul the machine out of mud holes, and on one 16-mile stretch it was in action 17 times!

Crochet Colorful Flowers

At this season of the year, when nature's flowers are few, your crochet hook can perform wonders with odds and ends of thread or yarn.

How about making a pot of red geraniums for your window sill or as a gift? A bowl of lilies of the valley or of pansies—or a combination of the two would prove decorative indeed. The pansies might be made into corsage, and there is a corsage of violets and a cluster of realistic Scotch thistles that would add just the right touch of color to your winter coat. The sprays of dainty apple blossoms could be used later to brighten the last few days of winter.

Directions for making all these flowers will be found in C8072, for 10c, or we can furnish enough material for the apple blossoms, lilies of the valley and geranium, the latter in red, for 35c, directions for 6 flowers included,—as C8072M.

MILADY'S NEW APPAREL

Surely at no time of year do feminine hearts yearn and turn to new things as in springtime.

While Mother Nature flaunts her beauty and dresses the trees and earth in lovely greens and other bewitching colors the heart of a woman longs also to adorn herself.

In the shops this spring stylists have arranged so many new and different things that it makes one glad to look at them. Of course, every thrifty and style-conscious woman knows that we can dress charmingly just as cheaply as we can dowdily. It is all in planning the wardrobe and choosing appropriate accessories.

Those who experienced pre-war days will remember the "feather boah." Also the long-drooping ostrich feathers from large hats. They will rejoice, perhaps, to know that feathers take a prominent part in this spring's wardrobe.

For those who have never worn "feathers," there is a challenge in the lovely ostrich feather capes which will be worn this season. They are just the right warmth for spring evenings and give the figure a subtle, graceful appearance.

Following the high fashion note, this new ostrich mode follows with cape of ostrich. There are also hats, gloves and handbags trimmed with ostrich plumes. Another variation of this charming trend is the use of tiny curled ostrich plumes for trimming evening dresses. In fact, you will find them used for decoration from the top of milday's hat to the tip of her tiny shoe.

SIMPLE SALADS THE BEST WINNERS

Sometimes we spoil the very effect we strive to attain when we try to do too much. This is certainly true when it comes to preparing salads.

It is in the field of salad-making that even the most rank amateur may achieve a prize-winning success. This is because salad-making does not go by any rigid set of rules. Cakes, pies, meats and even fancy vegetable dishes require rigid adherence to recipes, while in salad-making, personal tastes and inventiveness may achieve dishes "fit for a king."

Children love to mix salads so the wise mother will let her youngsters have a hand in this matter. Often it will induce the vegetable-shy youngster to eat them with a relish. There is something about the things we create which have a special appeal. Try it once and see for yourself.

Of course, dressing is of utmost importance to a successful salad. On the market today is such a wide variety of salad dressings that almost every taste can be satisfied. However, it is thrifty to make them at home and a trifle more healthful when lemon juice is used instead of vinegar, as in most commercial dressings.

Worcester sauce, chili sauce, catsup and a bottle of French dressing should be on the shelf of all salad lovers. They add zest and flavor to many dishes.

One of the most popular methods of serving salads is to arrange a large bowl or platter, with all the ready-prepared vegetables thoroughly chilled, and to let each person mix his or her own variety. The salad-dressing can be served in a separate dish and added as desired.

Where there are small children it is often wise to give vegetable salads some fanciful name; they will be more readily eaten. For instance, the cauliflower salad may be called "King Crown Salad." Here is the recipe:

King Crown Salad

1 head cooked cauliflower
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup thick tomato sauce or chili sauce
3 tablespoons chopped olives.
Mix mayonnaise and tomato sauce or chili sauce with olives and pour over chilled cauliflower head broken into dainty pieces. Give the salads fancy names, but retain simplicity of ingredients.

Iris Salad

3 slices tomatoes
1/2 hard boiled egg
Blanched almonds or pecans
French dressing.
Arrange tomato slices with lettuce. Place a slice of egg on each tomato piece. Just before serving, add nuts to the dressing and pour over the salad. There is a large variety of possible fruit combinations. Try a few for your family.

GOOD RECIPES

Some women ask me why do you call this department "Good Recipes?" It is because we offer you not only tested recipes but recipes that are good to taste and good to look at.

Fish Baked With Tomatoes

When dad or the boys return with a spring "catch of fish" is time to have a good recipe on hand.

When placing the fish in the oven, put in the bottom of the pan 4 tablespoons of chopped tomatoes, either fresh or canned. Baste the fish with them, adding water as usual. Care should be taken that the pan does not become dry, or the tomatoes will soon stick to it. Serve tomato sauce with the fish. Garnish with parsley or lettuce leaves.

Plain Beef Croquettes

Chop fine in a wooden bowl some cold roast or corned beef and mix in twice the quantity of well-seasoned hot mashed potatoes. Beat 1 egg and work it in with the mass and shape the mixture into little cakes. Roll either in flour or egg and cracker crumbs and dry in butter and shortening mixed. Brown both sides and serve very hot.

Spiced Ginger Bread

Use 1 cup molasses, 1 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 pint sifted flour, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon soda. Partly melt the butter and put it in the molasses. Dissolve the soda in water and add to molasses. Then add rest of ingredients and thoroughly mix. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

Hoe Cake

Many inquiries have come to me how to prepare this Southern dish. I have a recipe I think is very much like the recipe old negroes used to make and bake hoe cakes on their hoes. It was from this custom that the name originated.

1 pint of cornmeal and 1/2 teaspoon salt mixed. Pour sufficient boiling water over this to moisten the meal. After it has stood 10 minutes, add cold water until the mixture will drop from a spoon. Bake in same manner as griddle cake. When done, place a bit of butter on each cake and serve very hot.

Rusks

Take 2 cups of milk, 1 cup sugar, 1 yeast cake, 1 cup butter, 2 eggs, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, flour. At night scald the milk, and while it is cooling add the sugar and salt. When lukewarm, put in the yeast that has been dissolved in a little water. Add enough flour to make a thick batter, cover and set in a warm place over night. In the morning work butter into dough and add eggs well beaten and soda, dissolved in a little hot water. Add flour enough to admit rolling the dough out with a rolling pin. Roll into 1/2-inch thick, cut out the rusks with a biscuit cutter, place them in buttered pan and when risen to more than double the original size, brush over the top with sugar dissolved in milk, and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

Worth Remembering

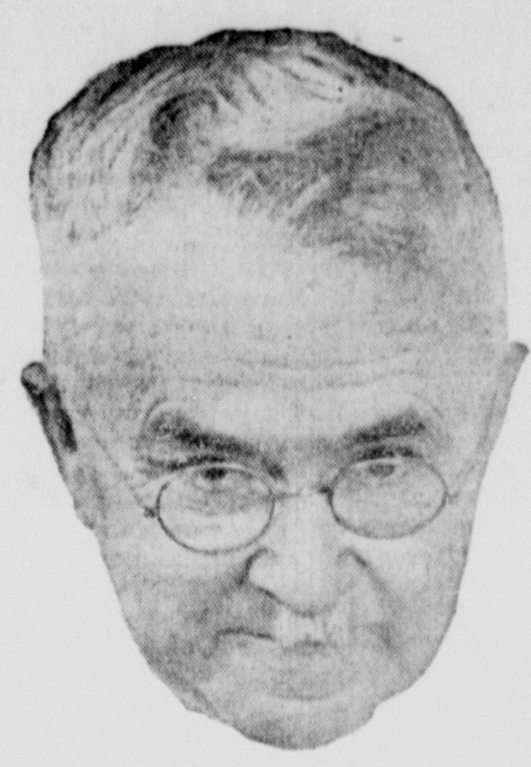

Articles of clothing should never be hung on nails. Rust is hard to remove.

A good dressing for leather covered chairs is a solution of equal parts of linseed oil and vinegar.

Quick breads, such as rolls and biscuits, should be baked in a hot oven.

Did you ever try grating cheese into the upper crust of an apple pie?

WIFE SPANKING

No matter how much a wife exasperates her husband, English law says he has no right to beat her. A London magistrate so ruled recently in the case of a clerk who spanked his wife for nagging.

However, many other countries consider wife beating the natural right of a husband if provocation is strong enough. A man can even get away with it in many parts of the United States, but in Delaware and Maryland a wife beater may be publicly flogged.

Wife beating was a universal practice in some European countries in the so-called "age of chivalry." Ladies even in the highest society were not excepted. As late as the fifteenth century, one chronicler relates, that a high-born lady so irritated her "knightly" husband by scolding him in public that he knocked her to the ground and then kicked her in the face, breaking her nose. The chronicler regarded the knight's action as laudable and reminded his own daughter that she could expect the same treatment under similar circumstances!

TEXAS FARM NEWS REPORTS

A wren built her home in the center of a wasp's nest in an oak tree at Kerrville.

Freestone county farmers have been assured of $1.75 per bushel for all blackeyed peas they produce this year provided 1,000 acres are planted to this crop.

Kenneth Trospen, Lipscomb county farmer, owns a cow that has given birth to four sets of twin calves, consecutively. All of the calves were normal and had a different sire.

Three lemons on a single stem, that weighed a total of three pounds, grew in the yard of Mrs. J. D. Wilson, 314 Sandmeyer Street, San Antonio.

During 1936 the farmers of Texas revived the almost extinct crafts of leather-tanning and syrup-making into home industries, thereby added about $200,000 to their farm incomes.

Billy Anderson, Holland FFA student, netted $13.82 profit from a Hereford steer he fed out as a vocational project. A balanced ration of corn, cottonseed meal, and hay was fed.

Wool production in Texas in 1936 was second largest on record, with a total of 64,265,000 pounds compared with the all-time record of 74,800,000 pounds in 1933. Texas wool production is 18 per cent of that for the entire United States.

Discovery of 1850 specimen of the Morelos Mexican fruit fly in the Lower Rio Grande Valley during the 1936-37 season brought a warning to growers from the United States Department of Agriculture. Several larvae-infested orchards were discovered by department employees during the past season. Unusually mild weather, without frost, fosters growth of the fruit fly pest.

A freak corn cob with well developed kernels grew on the farm of J. F. Dulaney in Falls county. Almost circular, it was about the size of a grapefruit.

More than 500 farms, comprising 75,000 acres in Dallas county, have been pledged as conservation zones for wild life, says County Agricultural Agent A. B. Jolley.

In an effort to find new crops economically adaptable to the blackland region, the Blackland Experiment Station, south of Temple, will grow test plots of hemp this year. Tests also will be run at experiment stations at Beeville, Angleton, Weslaco, Denton, and the Winter-garden station.

According to the Killeen Herald, 100 tons of manure spread evenly over 20 acres at the rate of 5 tons to the acre produces 50 per cent greater returns than when spread on five acres at the rate of 20 tons to the acre. Frequent light applications are recommended as the most profitable practice.

Terracing, crop rotation, and a balanced livestock and poultry program have enabled J. M. King, of Wise county, to overcome adverse circumstances, according to D. F. Eaton, county agricultural agent. King moved onto a farm badly washed and soil depleted. He terraced the land, practiced crop rotation, planted bermuda on waste land and planted legumes. In order to operate the past year he borrowed $325 from the Resettlement Administration. During the year he supplemented the feed he had grown with that bought with the borrowed money to feed his livestock and to feed out 24 hogs. The hogs brought him $536.25 in cash and he still has six on hand. He also sold 50 turkeys for $52. The cows and chickens paid for food and clothing for the family. King has paid off the loan and has some money left.

Approximately 2,000 acres of popcorn will be planted under contract this year in Bee, Dewitt and Hidalgo counties.

A total of 5,560 acres of land have been terraced in Medina county during 1937, according to the report of County Agent C. M. Merritt of Hondo.

A survey to determine the best voltage for electrical fences for cows showed that five volts impaired the animal's nerves, seven dried up the milk and thirteen were fatal.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ogden, of Jasper, have found that feeding hens armadillo meat increases egg production. The meat is cooked until tender and served to the hens. About four of the armadillos are consumed by 100 White Leghorns weekly.

An egg-breaking plant employing from 15 to 30 girls has been opened at Cuero with a capacity of 900 cases (32,400 eggs) daily. The plant has increased the market for eggs in the Dewitt county section.

The Boys' 4-H Club, of Van Zandt county, had the highest completion average of their projects of any county in Texas for 1936. Out of 613 members, 531 boys completed demonstrations. These projects were under the direction of J. W. Palmer, Jr., assistant county agent.

Pretty Mexican blue quail eat grain with the chickens in the yard of 92-year-old H. F. (Bobcat) Carter who lives alone in a tin shack at Persimmon Gap, between Marathon, Brewster county, and the Chisos mountains State Park. An old-age assistance check provides Carter with money to buy grain for his chickens and birds.

Lower Rio Grande Valley citrus this season has been trucked to 26 States beyond Texas, road station reports obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, reveal. The stations are maintained to check inspections of fruit.

State Superintendent of Education L. A. Woods reports that 580 recognized departments of vocational agriculture are giving instruction to 19,293 youths in Texas public schools. More than 11,000 adults attend night classes in the same schools.

Q. W. Thompson, Bell county farmer, has found that Hubam clover makes an excellent feed for livestock. He runs the clover (including stalks) and cane through a hammer mill and mixes with a small quantity of cottonseed meal. One bundle of Hubam is used to two or three bundles of cane.

The Texas Extension Service and the Department of Vocational Agriculture have officially endorsed the $1,000 Five-Year, One-Variety, Cotton-Community Contest being sponsored by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. Elmore R. Torn of Longview is agricultural director for the regional organization.

D. W. Moye, of Jasper county, started a feeding demonstration in January with nine three-month-old pigs, which he continued to April. At the end of four weeks he reported the pigs showed a gain of an average of two pounds per day, the gain having cost him 3 1-3 cents per pound. Corn is fed in a self-feeder in addition to a mixture of one part cottonseed meal, one part shorts, one part tankage with salt and bone meal added. Each pig gets one pound of this mixture daily.

A registered Suffolk ewe on the W. C. Buntin farm in the Snyder community, Scurry county, is the mother of triplet lambs. Weighing 11 1/2, 11 1/2 and 5 1/2 pounds at birth, they are registered and valued at $75.

* Texans has one-tenth of all the tenant farmers of the United States and yet it has more virgin soil than all other Southern States combined, says the Glade-water Times-Tribune. There are 286,000 tenant farm families in Texas, and there are seven and three-quarter million acres of undeveloped farm land in the State.

John W. Young, of the State Department of Agriculture, urges Texas farmers to buy only tested seed this year as there is a scarcity of good field seeds. A sack of tested seed has a tag affixed, he says, certifying the germination percentage of the seed. It is his opinion that caution should be exercised in buying from trucks or unknown dealers.

Nearly 100 first grade students at the Lubbock School, of Houston, saw a cow milked for the first time in their lives when Miss Mabel David, the instructor, arranged for a Houston dairy to bring a cow and give a milking demonstration on the campus. Churns were also provided, cream was bought from the dairy and the children took turns churning. A lunch party followed, and the butter was served on graham crackers.

Seven giant orange trees, which bear heavily in season although more than a century old, stand on the Laguna Seca Ranch, 20 miles north of Edinburg in Hidalgo county. R. R. Vela, manager of the historic ranch that once comprised a 75,000-acre grant from the King of Spain to Macedonia Vela nearly 200 years ago, says the trees sprang from the seed of one small orange.

A better variety of cottonseed will be shipped to several foreign countries by B. H. Hasselfield, of Tivoli. Two bushels will be shipped to China, thirty-six bushels to the Italian ambassador in New York for shipment to Italy, and ten tons to the Cotton Textile Institute at Athens, Greece.

Among roosters auctioned off in Alabama for the benefit of blind children, was one donated by Jim Allred, Jr., son of Texas' Governor. When a request came from the Governor of Alabama for a contribution, young Allred responded with a bantam rooster, which he prized highly. It was hand-raised and the only one of its kind in his flock.

Ben Rice, of Wildorado, Oldham county, has just completed 14 terraces 30 feet wide and 20 inches high on the steepest part of his cultivated land. Rice, who is blind, built the terraces himself with the help of his boys. The terraces were built with a small grader and four horses. The success of his work disproves the idea that large machinery is necessary for the construction of terraces, says R. T. Alexander, Jr., county agricultural agent.

A $75,000 canning plant is to be built at Athens. Canning of blackeyed peas will predominate over other products.

Thirteen thousand carloads of valley citrus fruit have gone to market, which is estimated at 75 per cent of the 1936-37 crop. Only 6,155 carloads had been shipped at the same time last year. Total shipment of fruit and vegetables is 21,300 carloads against 12,803 for a corresponding period last year. The citrus crop is estimated at 20,000 carloads, much of which will be processed by canning plants.

JOYS OF SPRING

DEAR FRIENDS:

Once again the well-coming spring sunshine has chased away the cold and gloom of winter. How eagerly we look forward to blossomingtime, the warmth of spring breezes and the new life all about us.

Since the beginning of creation mankind has loved spring. After man and woman had been driven from the Garden of Eden they saw in spring a promise of God that even after death we shall live again. They soon discovered that seed, when buried deeply within the warm bosom of earth, would come forth in spring with new and abundant life. We imagine the first time man planted seed he was filled with wonder as to what might happen. When the tiny green shoots began to come through the ground what must have been his thoughts? Perhaps he didn't realize what would come forth from the seeds planted, that eventually they would bear food for his sustenance.

Here in the great Southwest youngsters and oldsters should appreciate spring. You see warm days come to us much sooner than to States north of us. We have leafing and blooming trees many weeks ahead of these States. The lovely pageant of verdant leaves and wild flowers is something to make us thankful.

Speaking of flowers makes me think of something I want every reader of this page to pledge himself or herself to do and this is to help protect our beautiful wild flowers.

So often I see folks gathering wild flowers greedily. They find a lovely patch of flowers and unthinkingly try to gather every bloom in sight. Thus they destroy something that would be a pleasure to everyone who might pass that way. Wild flowers live but a short time in vases filled with water, while as a plant they sometimes live and bloom for two or three weeks. Many of our loveliest wild flowers come up year after year from seeds of the previous season. When all blooms are destroyed they soon die and no seed are left to produce flowers next year.

I feel certain if you tell your friends how easily are destroyed the beautiful floral pictures Mother Nature has painted for us, they will be more careful of our wild flower supply. Will each of you pledge not only to protect all wild flowers but ask others also to protect them?

Goodbye until next month.

(Signed) AUNT MARY.

D. Y. B. Club News

Due to "the measles" in Aunt Mary's family, there was delay in sending out the membership cards. I hope all of you have received them by this time. If you entered the Name Contest and have not received your membership card please notify me at once. If you did not enter the Name Contest perhaps you would like to know more about this club.

The name "D. Y. B." stands for DO YOUR BEST.

There are no assessments, dues or fees at any time. The only requirement is that you be a regular reader of this page, which is printed once a month. If you do not now subscribe to a newspaper which carries the Boys' and Girls' page, edited by Aunt Mary, do so at once. See your local newspaper editor. Write me any suggestion you may have for the betterment of the page. Address Aunt Mary, Publicity Dept., Route 5, Box 179-B, Fort Worth, Texas.

The object of the club is to interest boys and girls in doing their very, very best in whatever they undertake.

One duty of the club is to write helpful, cheerful letters to lonely and to shut-in folk. Special awards will be given for the number of letters written by members. Be sure to keep a record of these letters.

Another duty of the club is to write interesting stories which will be published on this page from time to time. Special prizes will be awarded for the best stories.

One of the chief duties of the club is to get all of us acquainted with one another, even though we live far apart. It has been said that the only person we don't like is the one we don't know. We want to know and to like one another.

Many other duties will come up as the club grows in membership. Be sure to watch the CLUB NEWS for developments that will interest you.

Credit will be given for any suggestions you may offer that will help the club. We appreciate suggestions.

We would like for every boy and girl in the Southwest to join the club. Only one thing is necessary—fill out the coupon completely at bottom of this page and mail at once to Aunt Mary, Membership, Route 5, Box 179-B Fort Worth, Texas.

TRUE STORIES

Many times the most interesting stories in the world are found right in our front yard—so to speak. The things we see frequently and pay little attention to are often as thrilling as the best novel.

Would you think that the little fish you sometimes see your mother buy at the market could really have an interesting story? Yet, in reality, fishing is an exciting sport and also profitable. Doctors and scientists have discovered that fish contain many valuable food elements that we need.

Sometimes mother says, "You must eat your spinach; it has vitamins." Vitamin is a food element that boys and girls need and grown up folk as well.

Fish have different food elements from spinach, but are just as important in our diet. And I am sure that most of you like fish. Would you like to know some of the interesting things about the fish industry?

For many years people thought of fishing as a sport. They liked the taste of fish but didn't know their value as a health food. When doctors began to find vitamins in fish the fishing industry (or the catching of fish for the market) began in earnest.

Men formed companies that bought and built many boats, especially designed to catch all manner of fish. Almost overnight it became one of the large industries of the Southwest.

Of course, you know that in each business are some greedy and selfish men. These men began to take fish from the Gulf, the streams and the lakes of the Southwest so fast that it threatened to destroy this industry. Millions of fish were killed not large enough to eat and millions of fish eggs destroyed.

Texas and other coastal States had to pass laws regulating the fishing industry. There was formed the Coastal Division, which has charge of enforcing these laws. Headquarters of this division is at Corpus Christi, but there are sub-division stations all along the coast.

Most of the work of the Coastal Division is at night as this is the time that "out-law" fishermen catch the fish.

We know that the fishing crop is not like our grain, fruit and other crops. It is a crop that cannot be replanted easily, even though we have fish hatcheries that raise fingerling fish for replanting in streams and lakes. Oysters are also replanted in bays and at the mouth of rivers. The gift of seas and rivers in the form of fish is from nature which God created.

The bays, from which the major portion of fish are taken, are separated from the Gulf by narrow strips of land extending almost the entire length of the Texas coast. One of these strips—Padre Island—is 150 miles long, extending from Corpus Christi to Point Isabel, near Brownsville. There are only five openings or passes that connect the bays with the Gulf.

Careful study of the habits of fish and shrimp show that they lay eggs in the vicinity of these passes and that the little newly hatched fish come into the inland waters with the tide. This is where they do their first feeding and make their first growth. Of course, you know that baby fish must care for themselves as mother fish never look after them when once the eggs are laid.

It is interesting that in one year 25,000,000 pounds of fish were taken from our coastal waters by commercial fishermen. Then 5,000,000 pounds more taken by sportsmen, who fish mainly for fun.

One sad fact we must face is that while Texas oysters are regarded as the best in flavor and in quality they are yearly becoming less productive.

An oyster reef, or bed, must be cultivated and given the same care and attention as an ordinary field of corn. If disturbed the beds do not propagate well. In addition to damage to oyster reefs and beds by careless individuals, is damage from natural elements. Floods lower the salinity and remove food elements which oysters must have, and hurricanes cover the beds with mud and silt. Also drills, or conks, and black bass prey upon oysters. Hence this section of our coast can supply only part of the market demands.

Recently Texas has attempted to encourage the establishment of oyster farms along the coast by private individuals.

PACK ANIMALS

What pack animal is best for the gold prospector? The answer depends on the ground he has to cover and the feed available. In the high Himalayas prospectors use yaks, large wild oxen of Central Asia that have been domesticated. Heretofore, most Australians have used mules or donkeys, but the other day an Australian prospector left for the desert with 25 camels.

In the Alaskan gold rush practically every kind of pack animal except the camel was used. Prospectors pressed horses, dogs, mules, donkeys and even oxen into service.

Many horses died in Alaska, but others got accustomed to the climate and lived. Some even learned to walk on snowshoes and eat flour when grain gave out!

Oxen prove valuable in several ways. They can pull through mud that no horse, donkey or mule can navigate, and, once the gold camp is reached, the prospector can sell them for beef.

FRIENDLY STIMULATION

JOHN HELD, Jr., famous artist now starring in radio's "Varsity Show," says, "A fragrant cup of Maxwell House—Ah! There's nothing like it! It eases tension... gives you a welcome 'pick-up' that helps you do your best!" How welcome you'll find its friendly stimulation, too!

ROSALIND GREENE AND IRENE HUBBARD, two of radio's finest actresses. Rosalind agrees that "when it comes to refreshing, friendly stimulation, Maxwell House is 'tops'!" "And don't forget," adds Irene, "that no other coffee is so deliciously fresh!"

DARIO AND DIANE, hailed by many as America's foremost ballroom dancers. Diane (Mrs. Diane Dewey in real life) says, "And what simply marvelous coffee Maxwell House is! It is so delightfully rich and mellow—more so than any other coffee I have ever tasted!"

PROVE FRESHNESS BY THE "SMELL" TEST!

Remember this when you buy your next pound of coffee: If you can smell that tempting coffee aroma, it means that the container is not protecting the coffee properly. It is permitting flavor to escape. You never smell the fragrant aroma of Maxwell House until you open the can. For Vita-Fresh Maxwell House is packed in the super-vacuum can you open with a key. And this is the only way science knows to bring you coffee without loss of flavor—coffee always as fresh and full-flavored as the hour it left the roaster.

The aviator's wife was taking her first trip with her husband. "Wait a moment George," she said. "I'm afraid we'll have to go down again." "What's wrong?" asked the husband.
"I believe I've dropped one of the pearl buttons off my jacket. I think I can see it glistening on the ground."
"Keep your seat, my dear," said the aviator. "That's a lake."

Bob Burns

One day Paul Whiteman was standing out in the yard when it started to rain, and his wife told him to come in and let it rain on the lawn. That made him mad, so he went on a diet—and today Paul ain't any bigger than a house. It's funny how we're all built different. I got an aunt down in Arkansas who's so skinny she wouldn't have any shape at all if she didn't have an Adam's apple.

Keeping Tally
"No, sir," said the barber as he lathered his customer's face. "I used to give credit, but nobody asks for it now."
"Oh," said the customer, surprised, "why is that?"
"Well, I got tired of keeping books, and now when a man asks for credit I just put a little nick in his nose with the razor and keep tally that way."

English in Brazil
Here is an extract from a book written in English and published at Para, Brazil:
"The American salesman is of energy we admire which in the tropics. Youthful generally he lively breathes and up-rightly walks, searching customers for the firm represents he. Yet under breast of the American salesman beats heart the warm, therefore give we greeting smiles with hands open to him, crying Brazil, Mister, you welcome."

About the Same
The shop assistant was attempting to sell a bicycle to a farmer. "They're good and cheap," he urged, "and they don't eat their heads off when not in use. You'd find one mighty handy 'round your farm. I can sell you this one for forty dollars."
"Forty dollars! I'd rather put my money into a cow."
"But you'd look foolish riding a cow 'round your farm."
"Not so foolish as I'd look milking a bicycle."

Fire Never "Tched 'Em"
A negro evangelist, preaching on the three men in the fiery furnace, was just beginning to "warm up" to his subject.

"Did those three good men in de fiery furnace get burnt," he shouted.
"No-o!" came back an answering shout in unison from the congregation.
"Did dey get scorched?"
"No-o-o!"
"Did dey even get de least bit singed?"
"No-o-o-o!"
During the lull that followed a little black man in the back row spoke up: "Pahson, Ah doubts of eber dey broke out in a sweat."

Bright Retort
A little girl of five was entertaining while her mother was getting ready to go out with some visitors. One of the visiting ladies remarked to the other with a significant look: "The little one is not so very p-r-et-t-y," spelling the last word.
"No," said the child quickly, "but awful s-m-a-r-t."

When Chicks Arrive
The arrival of the baby chicks from the hatchery is always a most interesting time. The experienced chick raiser knows that everything should be in readiness for them so that they may be gotten off to a good start. He knows that the house should have been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and clean, fresh litter placed on the floor after the house has dried out from the disinfection. The brooder has been run for two or three days before the chicks arrive in order that the house may be at the proper temperature and there may be no danger of chicks chilling. April nights are usually a little too cool for baby chicks.

Do Roofs Need Repairs?
Winter is usually hard on the poultry house roof and it is best to check the roofs of both the laying house and the brooder house to see that they will withstand the spring rains. April nearly always brings wind and rain, and any repairs needed should be made at once. Leaky roofs mean damp houses which can do considerable damage to the health of the flock. The wise flock owner will therefore examine roofs of his poultry houses at once and make needed repairs or put on a new roof if necessary, just as quickly as possible, using a good quality roofing material.

Chick Feeding
Chick feeding today means providing all the important growth factors: protein, carbohydrates, fat, fibre, vitamins, minerals, and not just scraps and any old thing. Better depend on a prepared feed to start 'em right.
Health doesn't come by the pound—horse sense and strict attention to details are the best assurance that good chicks, well fed and managed, will make good layers.
